EVERY PIECE OF WRITING REGARDLESS OF THE SUBJECT MUST HAVE ITS

OPENING LINES

They called my name over the loudspeaker! I almost had a heart attack. I made a beeline to Mr. Garvey's office and sat in the line up, waiting for my turn to talk to the assistant principal.

"You're out of line," Mr. Garvey was saying to me. "This is the sixth day you've come to school late. You're really putting yourself on the line."

"But, Mr. Garvey," I offered my excuse, "I've been up late every night working on Headlines, the theme of our yearbook! I even worked through the weekend, and I didn't get to go to the beach with my friends. My tan lines are practically gone!" . . .

"How's that for an opening, Ronc?" "Not bad, guys. It has potential, but it needs more of an introduction to the theme of lines that will be carried throughout the book." "Yeah, but Ronc, we don't want to give everything away. Let them read the book themselves." "Well, I don't know . . ." "They'll love it Ronco, believe me, besides this has to be in. We have a deadline! Now just sign on the dotted line."

Christine DeCarlo and Chris Frisina take advantage of the warm weather and relax on the front lawn during a free period.

While discussing plans for the upcoming weekend, students congregate in front of the band room.

Walking away from the job? Students leave school after finishing 9th period classes.

And the next runner up is ... at the first pep rally, the Varsity Soccer team introduces the team for 1984.

Looking onward, Senior Anne Fredrick gets a kick out of the roof workers.

LINES OF COMMUNICATION

What? When? Did you hear...? When are you free? See you later. Can't talk now, have to finish my homework. It's awesome! Snatches of conversation create a kaleidoscope of sound as we walk through the halls. And as we talk and listen to our teachers and friends, lines of communication are woven... forming the fabric of our lives.

Getting a kick out of it, junior, Dennis Madigan jokes with friends at the pep rally.

Homework, meetings, sports practice, deadlines, jobs — all that on top of going to classes!

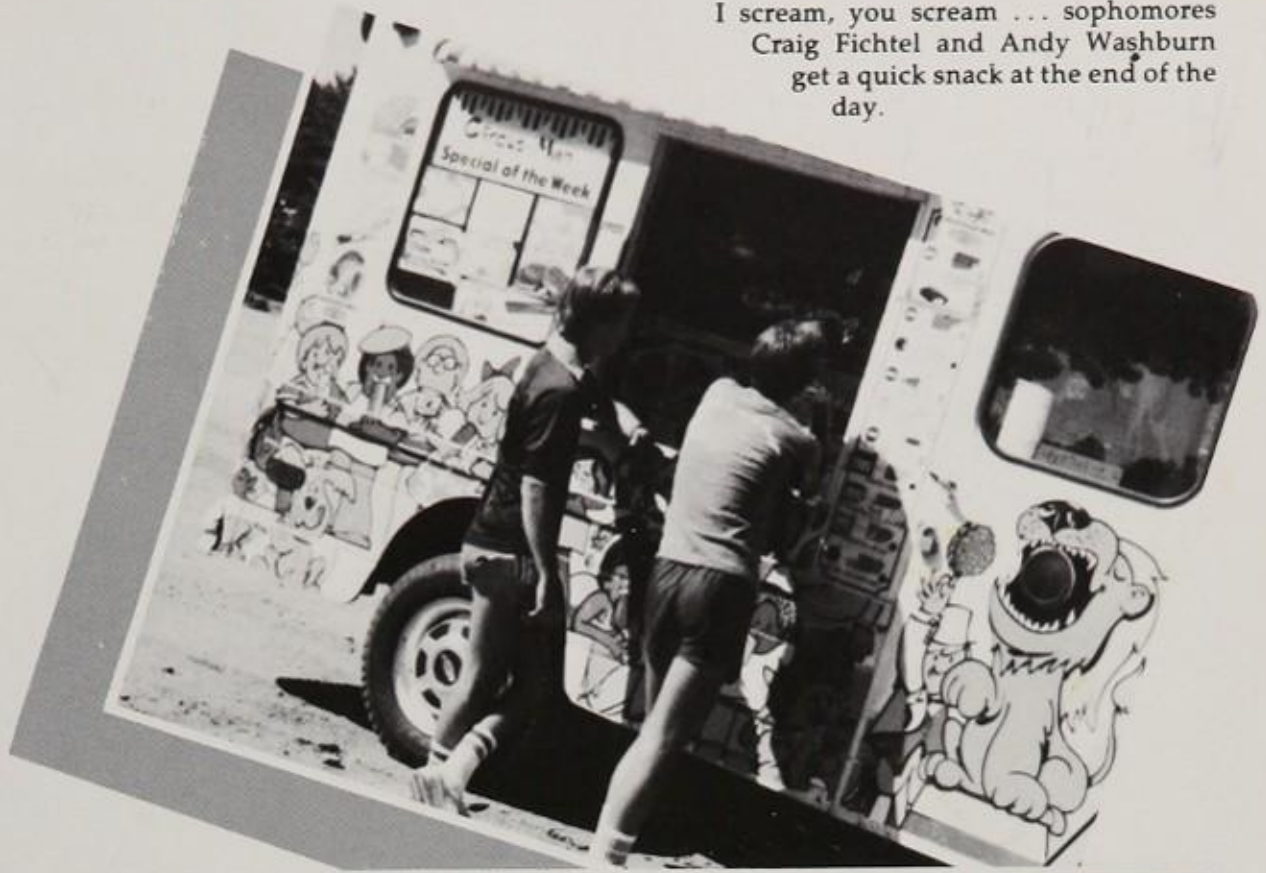

Timelines aren't always associated with just History class. Every day we unconsciously create a new timeline for ourselves just by doing the things we normally do. Think about it the next time your history teacher asks you to make a timeline.

Dedication

Because he's always put us there, it's our turn to name Richard Taylor

FIRST IN LINE

Since 1957, the second year of our district's existence, Richard Taylor has worked with the students here. A teacher first, Mr. Taylor has been our principal for six years.

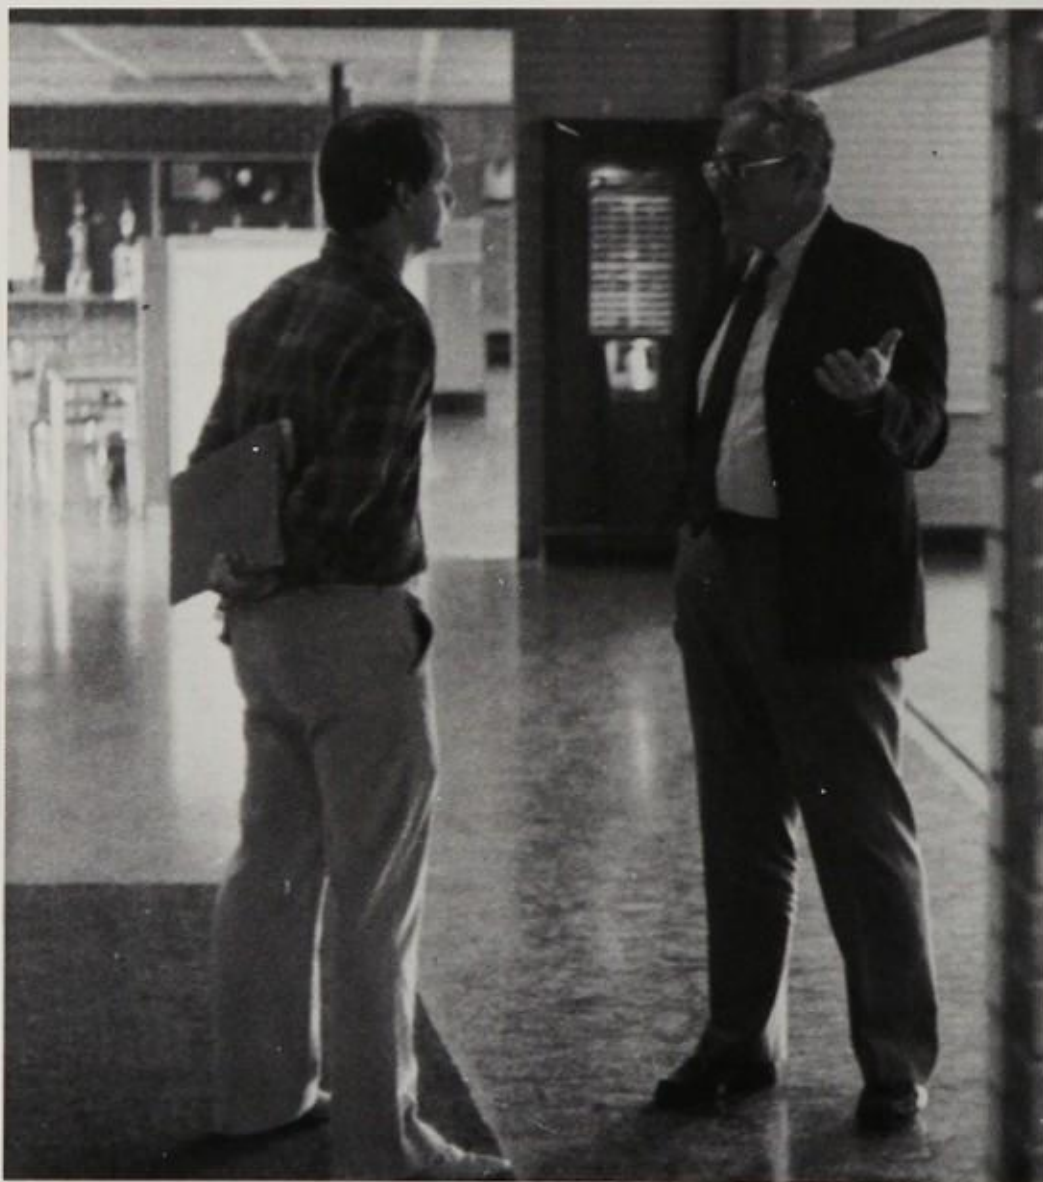

In all that time, he has placed our educational and individual growth first in a long line of priorities. He understands that we need guidelines for behavior, but also that we need room for growth: to make decisions and take responsibility for them. We are all proud to have known him, and are sorry for those who will not have that opportunity.

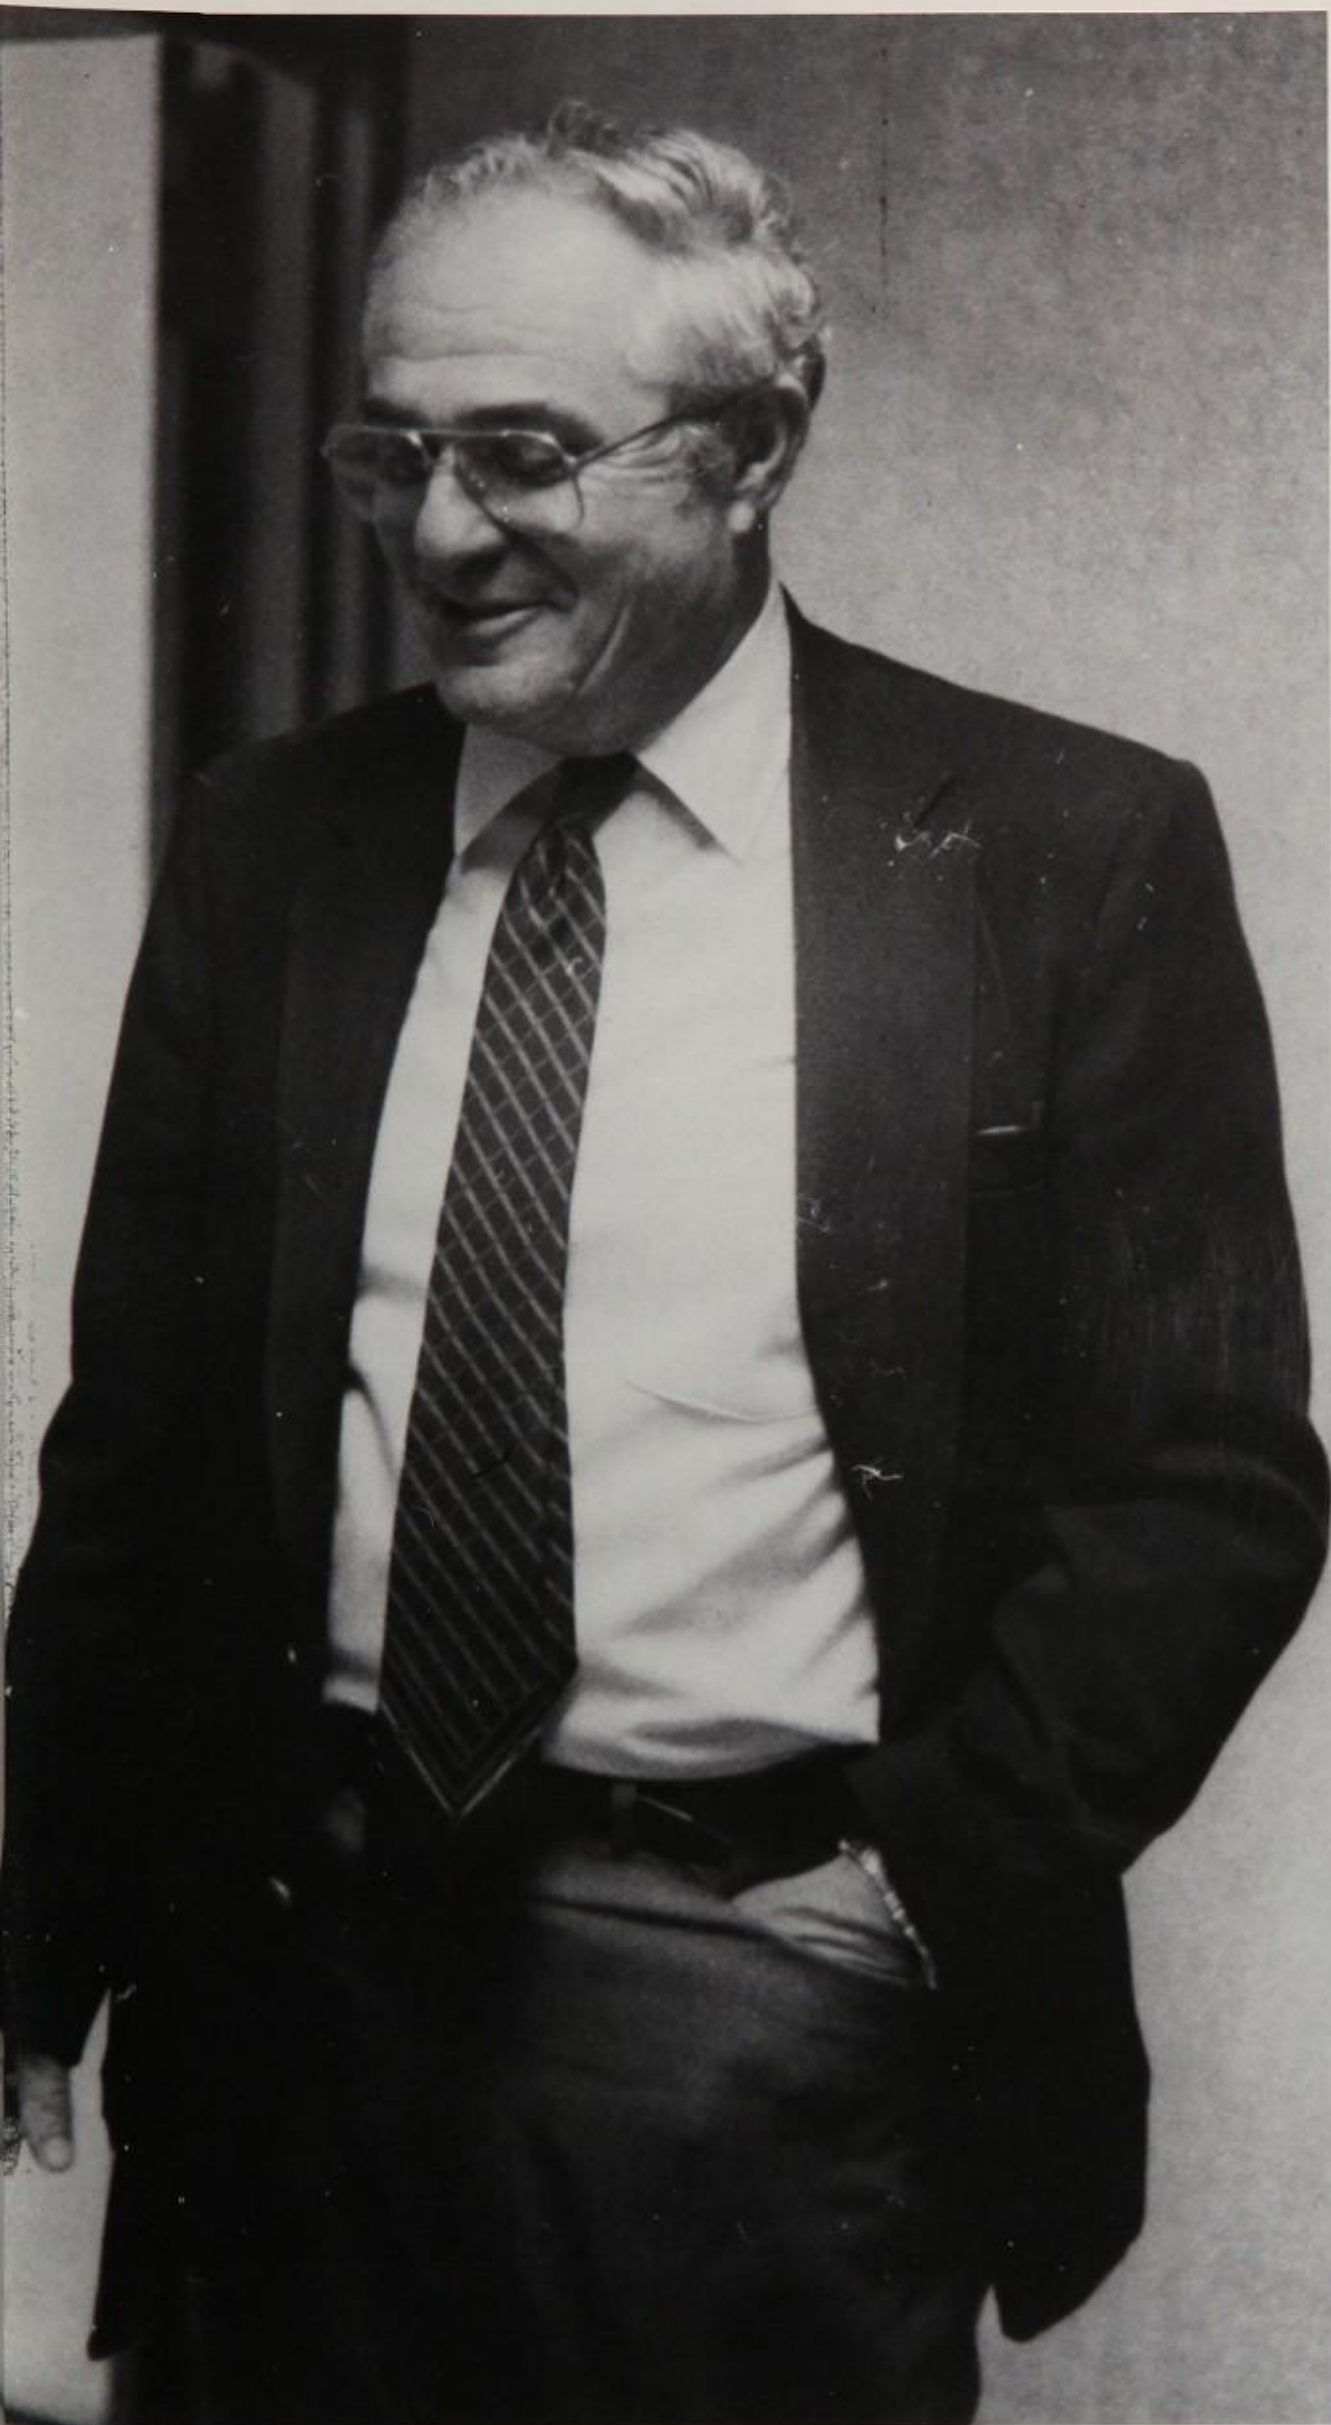

We dedicate this yearbook with all its fond memories to our principal, RICHARD TAYLOR.

At the beginning of each school day Mr. Taylor can be found observing his student body going to classes.

"There's no place like home." This is a familiar sight to Mr. Taylor since he has driven to and from school for so many years.

Principal Richard Taylor takes time from his busy schedule to pose for a picture.

Mrs. Perks provides the humor as Mr. Taylor chuckles on his way through the office.

On the go again, Principal Taylor comments to a colleague as he passes the main office.

Student Life

The first major event of the year, Homecoming begins as we rally on the Yellow and green streamers lined the once dim room. One by one lines of students filed into the cafeteria. "Homecoming festivities" for 1984 had started off with an exciting bonfire to introduce this year's football team, Varsity and Junior Varsity cheerleaders, Marching Band and Drill Team. The event went well, and the crowd screamed with delight as the "Bayport Dummy" was ripped into pieces then thrown onto the roaring fire by the Varsity football team. Once the fire died down, the spectators paraded into the cafeteria that had been transformed into a dance floor. Only a few brave souls danced to the first few songs, but soon the music brought the rest of us to our feet and the floor stayed jammed for the rest of the dance. The fatigue on some of our faces was evident as our sweaty hair stuck to our foreheads, but we weren't about to stop. A walk outside or sitting out for a song was all we needed and then it was back to dancing. But all too soon the dance ended and people were heading home to make ready for yet another day of the "Homecoming festivities."

Dancin' the night away, senior Maria Byrd enjoys music at the Homecoming dance.

"Let's Get Physical." That describes the clash between the Tornados and Bayport's Phantoms. The final score was 12-30.

This is serious business. Senior Donna Michlik concentrates on her music and her steps.

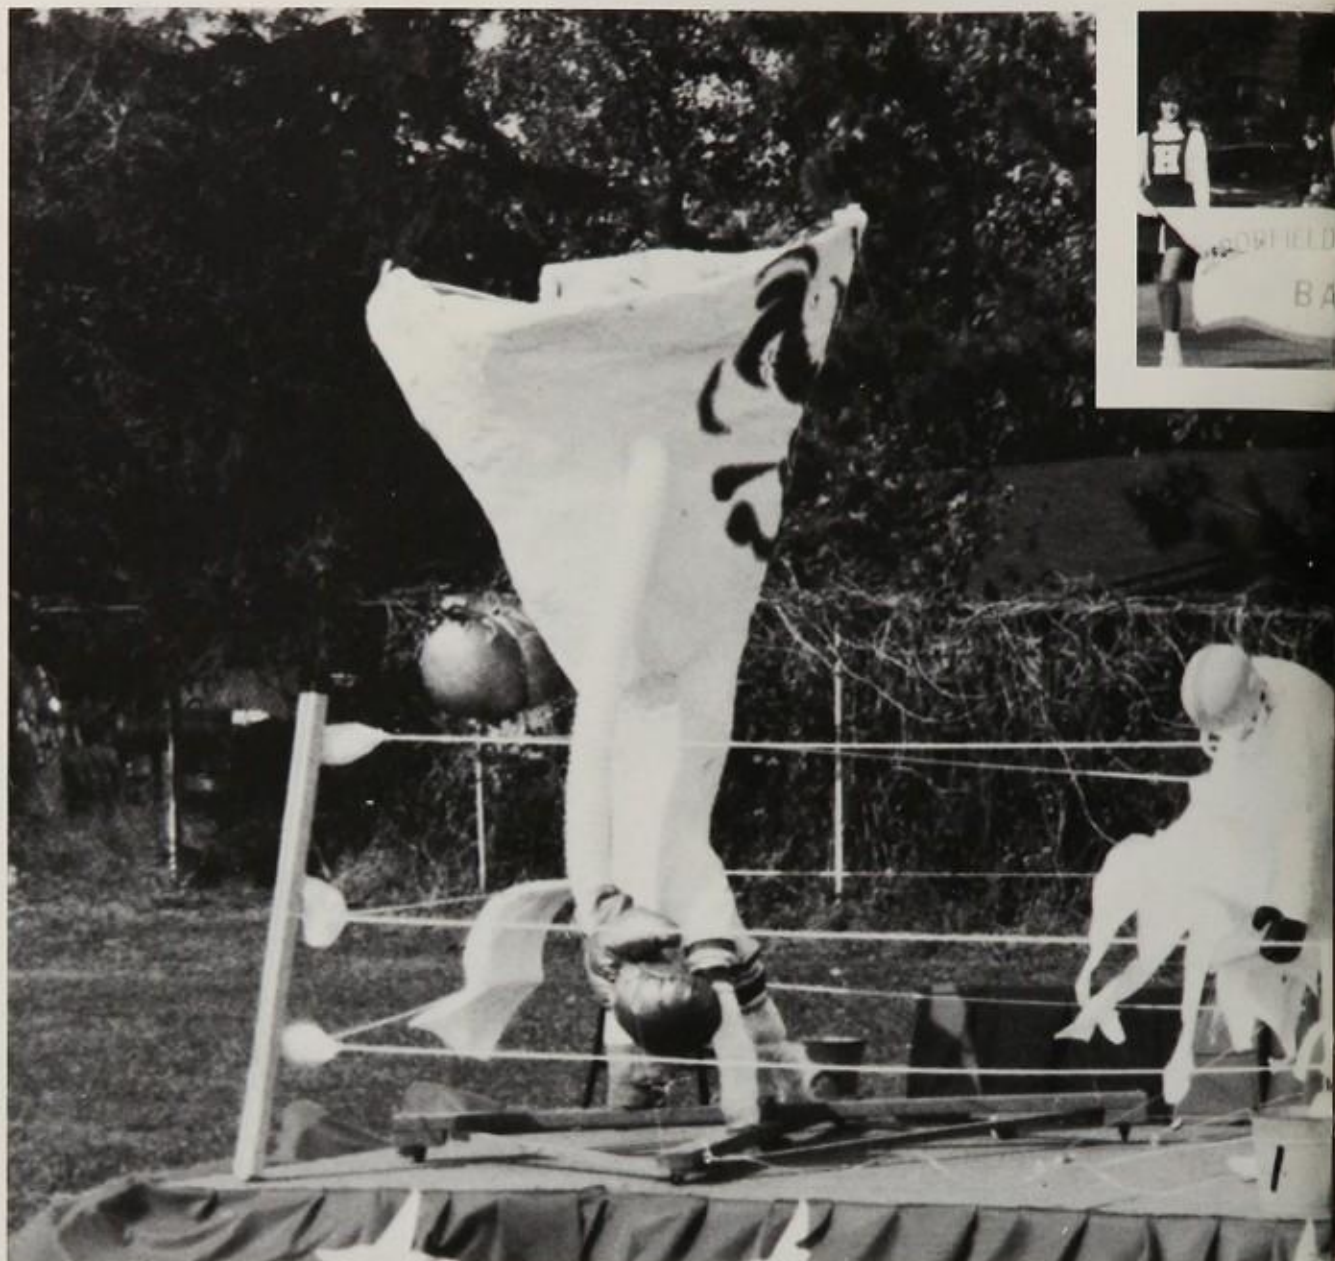

Even TJL gets involved with the Homecoming. Their float, while not entered in the competition, was a true show of spirit and involvement.

A blaze of glory salutes our spirit at the bonfire, which starts the festivities of Homecoming weekend.

The class of 1985 won the float contest for the second year in a row, with their "mascot," the Tornado. This year's theme was "Fight the Phantoms."

A MEMORABLE DAY

Homecoming 1984 . . . Saturday, October 13 . . . a line of events with memories we will cherish for the rest of our lives.

Many students were awake by 6 am to put finishing touches on their floats, getting "psyched" for their class to win the contest. At 11:00ish, the completed floats were brought to the library for judging. Marching band, drill team and color guard members had to be at school at 11:30 for a quick rehearsal before the parade. By 12:15 they were all back at the library getting into the line-up.

The parade began promptly at 12:30. The line-up included floats from all four classes, plus Oldfield and TJL; the colorguard, Drill team and Marching Band; JV and Varsity cheerleaders, the Oldfield cheerleaders and the Homecoming Court. Members of the court were: Maria Byrd, Ann Frederick, Shari Friedman, Jill Hickerson, Jackie Jones, Meg Kirschner, Cynthia Poulos, Lisa Racaniello and Ruchel Ramos. The Fire Department was also in the Parade. All participants arrived at school in time for the 1:30 football game against the Bayport Phantoms.

The football game was loaded with both spirit and excitement. Although we lost 12 to 30, everyone who participated in the weekend's festivities had a great time. During halftime, the band, colorguard and Drill team performed their Hofstra show, which included "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," "Maniac," and "Son of a Preacher Man." The winner of the float contest was announced at half-time. It was the Class of 85 with their float "Fight the Phantoms." Other floats included an adorable float from TJL, a float from Oldfield, the Class of 88's "Towering Tornadoes," the Class of 87's "Phantom Busters," and the class of 86's also "Phantom Busters." After the game, it was time for the clean-up crews to go back to the "float houses" and dismantle the floats, and for dancers to go home and get ready.

This year's Homecoming Dance was held at the Thatched Cottage, which is becoming a tradition. Ruchel Ramos was crowned queen. Everyone who attended had a super time, whether they were on the floor dancing to the DJ's music or taking a walk outside by the water to cool off. Homecoming 1984 was a huge success and gave us a wonderful memory to treasure.

NEW LINE OF THOUGHT

If one sees a student walking down the hall wearing rubber bracelets with earrings to match, neon colored apparel and perhaps some sort of "tail" one can only come to one conclusion — that student is definitely "up-to-date" with the fads of 1985.

Bizarre dangling objects, flaunting themselves from behind locks of hair are — believe it or not — earrings. There is no limit to what one can find in style, size, shape or color. The unique styles have become a way to express one's own individuality or "image".

Bright orange, yellow and green stream past in the hall. Neon coloring is popular in anything from sweaters to socks.

Colored or braided "tails" are a new addition to heads of hair. Sophomore Jeanine Botsko commented, "getting a tail when I did was something really different, but now everyone's getting one."

HANG-OUTS...

Every school has its smoking areas, and at Harborfields the most popular smoking section is known as "The Patio." Although the Patio serves as one of the few designated smoking areas, it also serves as a place for meeting friends before and during school, as a place for just hanging out.

In the early morning, before the first period bell, you'll usually find a crowd of people on the Patio. They're not only smoking their cigarettes, but consuming cups of hot coffee to shake the last traces of fatigue, and prepare themselves for the oncoming day. The few minutes before the first bell is also a time to exchange greetings, as well as homework assignments and other bits of excitement that have occurred in the previous out-of-school hours. The Patio provides a sufficient amount of space and freedom for these exchanges, and also for the needed social contact before settling down for classes. During the course of the school day, the Patio serves as a place for us to go during free periods to relax and converse with fellow students. This is also a time to discuss test results or some of the day's unpleasantries or frustrations, or just "things." In the warmer months, it is not uncommon to see some of the students lunching on one of the benches provided, talking over the day's events. You might catch such phrases as: "I swear, I've had it with this school," or "Did you hear...?"

Although the amount of people frequenting the Patio decreases in the winter, as soon as the spring weather sets in, so does the crowd. What better place than outside to enjoy the fresh air?

To those who feel the Patio serves only as a place to continue a habit — you couldn't be more incorrect. Our Patio serves as a needed social spot, where people can relate as well as relax!!

As well as the Patio, there are many other places for a student to socialize. It could be a noisy cafeteria, a certain spot which is a cool place to hang out, or even a certain teacher's artroom. All of these factors could be some of the characteristics which reflect on the student body as a whole.

One area that shows a lot of character and is largely overlooked, is the hallway. You might be thinking: "The Hallway, come off of it!" But, really, the hallways of a high school have definite

To start off, where else would you hear the obnoxious sound of slamming lockers at 7:30 a.m.? Where else would you witness mature teenagers throwing books at one another? Where else would you see an otherwise dignified student kicking her locker, or screaming profanities and holding his foot due to the fact that the damned thing wouldn't open for the sixth day in a row? Lockers have a definite way of ruining a seemingly perfect day. It's positive that at one point you've asked a friend "How was your day?" and their reply was something like "it stunk. jammed 1st per..."

Not all aspects of the hallway are negative, though. It's a great place to say "What's up!!" to your friends, passing from one class to another. It's kind of like a five minute social gathering, so to speak. It relieves the boredom of classes, at least for a few minutes, and gives the students a chance to breathe the air other than that of a classroom.

So the next time you walk down the hall, look around at all the different people. Each one is different — each one is usually doing something different — yet it all seems to blend so well — reflecting at large the student body, in effect, showing definite character.

MY SISTER EILEEN

The Big Apple is not so close to home for

The Harborfields Theater Company season was ushered in on November 15, 16, and 17 with "My Sister Eileen." The show is the story of two sisters who leave their home in Ohio to "make it big" in New York City.

Meg Kirschner played Eileen, sweet and innocent, with a flair for making new friends quickly, and also getting caught in sticky situations. Barbara Bruno was her older and wiser sister, Ruth, who was always able to come up with a quick and witty response to any situation. She also had a hard time keeping track of Eileen and the men who Eileen attracted.

The girls take an apartment after being tricked into it by Mr. Appopolous (Steven Lanza). Marc Stein and Heather Gatley portrayed the "Wreck" and Helen, upstairs neighbors. As Ruth attempts to become a fine author, and Eileen sets out to become the greatest star on Broadway, they meet up with several other interesting characters.

Charlie Norwesh was Bob Baker, a magazine editor who finds himself caught between the two sisters. Chris Johnston was a fast-moving newspaper reporter who was interested in Eileen. The shy, awkward drugstore manager with a crush on Eileen was played by Ray Scott. Violet Shelton, a girl-about-town, was brought to life by Shari Friedman.

The play was filled with Brazilian cadets, a consul, a street vendor, and even the Domjan's real, live, little black poodle. Also featured were Chrissy Lawless as a prospective tenant, Ann Marie Finnie as the girls' mother, Julia Harmon as Helen's mother, and Craig Fichtel as the handyman.

Everyone involved in the play had a terrific time. Their hard work paid off; and, on November 15, "My Sister Eileen" opened as a great success.

HOFSTRA

Thursday, October 18th at 10:15 P.M., on the Hofstra University Field, the familiar introductory drum roll of the Harborfields Marching Band sounded. Dramatically rushing forward they executed their first piece, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," immediately captivating the 15 other bands.

"Maniac" was then performed by the Drill Team with precision and neatness, and was accompanied by particularly tricky movements. The kickline members weren't the only ones to engross the crowd with difficult moves. As "Son of a Preacher Man" was performed, the Band members themselves exhibited a twisting and winding march. From pinwheels to backward marching, the stadium atmosphere was seized with a tremendous surge of energy and vigor.

Mr. Domencetti was extremely pleased with his band's performance at Hofstra. And the Band members admit that the audience was just not "rocking" until the Tornadoes emerged. There is no doubt that the Tornado Marching Band and Drill Team are two marvels that play a strong part in giving Harborfields High School its deep sense of pride and honor.

Walking a fine line. Long hours of summer practice prepare the Marching Band for their upcoming season and Hofstra.

Harborfields has one of the finest music programs on Long Island. Every Fall and Spring the Choir, Orchestra, Stage Band, Wind Ensemble and Symphonic Band perform concerts for enjoyment. Choir and Band meet in class during the day as does Orchestra. Stage Band rehearses on Wednesday nights. The winter concerts for 1984-85 were December 18, and February 7. The spring concerts will be held May 3, and 17. The Wind Ensemble and Symphonic Band will perform a Pops Concert on May 31; this concert is outdoors and popcorn and juice is served to the audience during the concert. It is very well received just as all the other concerts are.

The lights went dim and the auditorium was silent. From off stage, like a bunch of crazy luns, ran in the three mc's, Rick Gouse, Steve Lanza and Stu Rosenberg! They announced the acts very humorously both nights of the Talent Show.

Opening the show were Chrissy Lawless, Sharon Tashman and Steve Lanza with "Rocky Mountain High." The acts ranged from singing to dancing. Two bands performed — Purgatory on Friday, and the Blues Unit on Saturday. The Senior Air Band "played" "Hot for Teacher" both nights; and Mr. Andrew Atkins baffled and amused us with a "magic act to top all magic acts." Both nights were a great success!

SLAVES FOR A DAY

"What do I hear for this Senior? Do I hear one-dollar?" Seniors stood on desks, one at a time, as under-classmen gathered around three and four deep to bid for one day's control of a senior.

The money was raised for Student Council. Bids were anywhere from one dollar to twenty-one dollars or more. The auction went on for two hours, and many seniors were sold and a lot of money was raised.

The next day was the actual Slave Day. Seniors who were sold as slaves were permitted to leave class five minutes early in order to meet their master at their classroom, and go to class five minutes late.

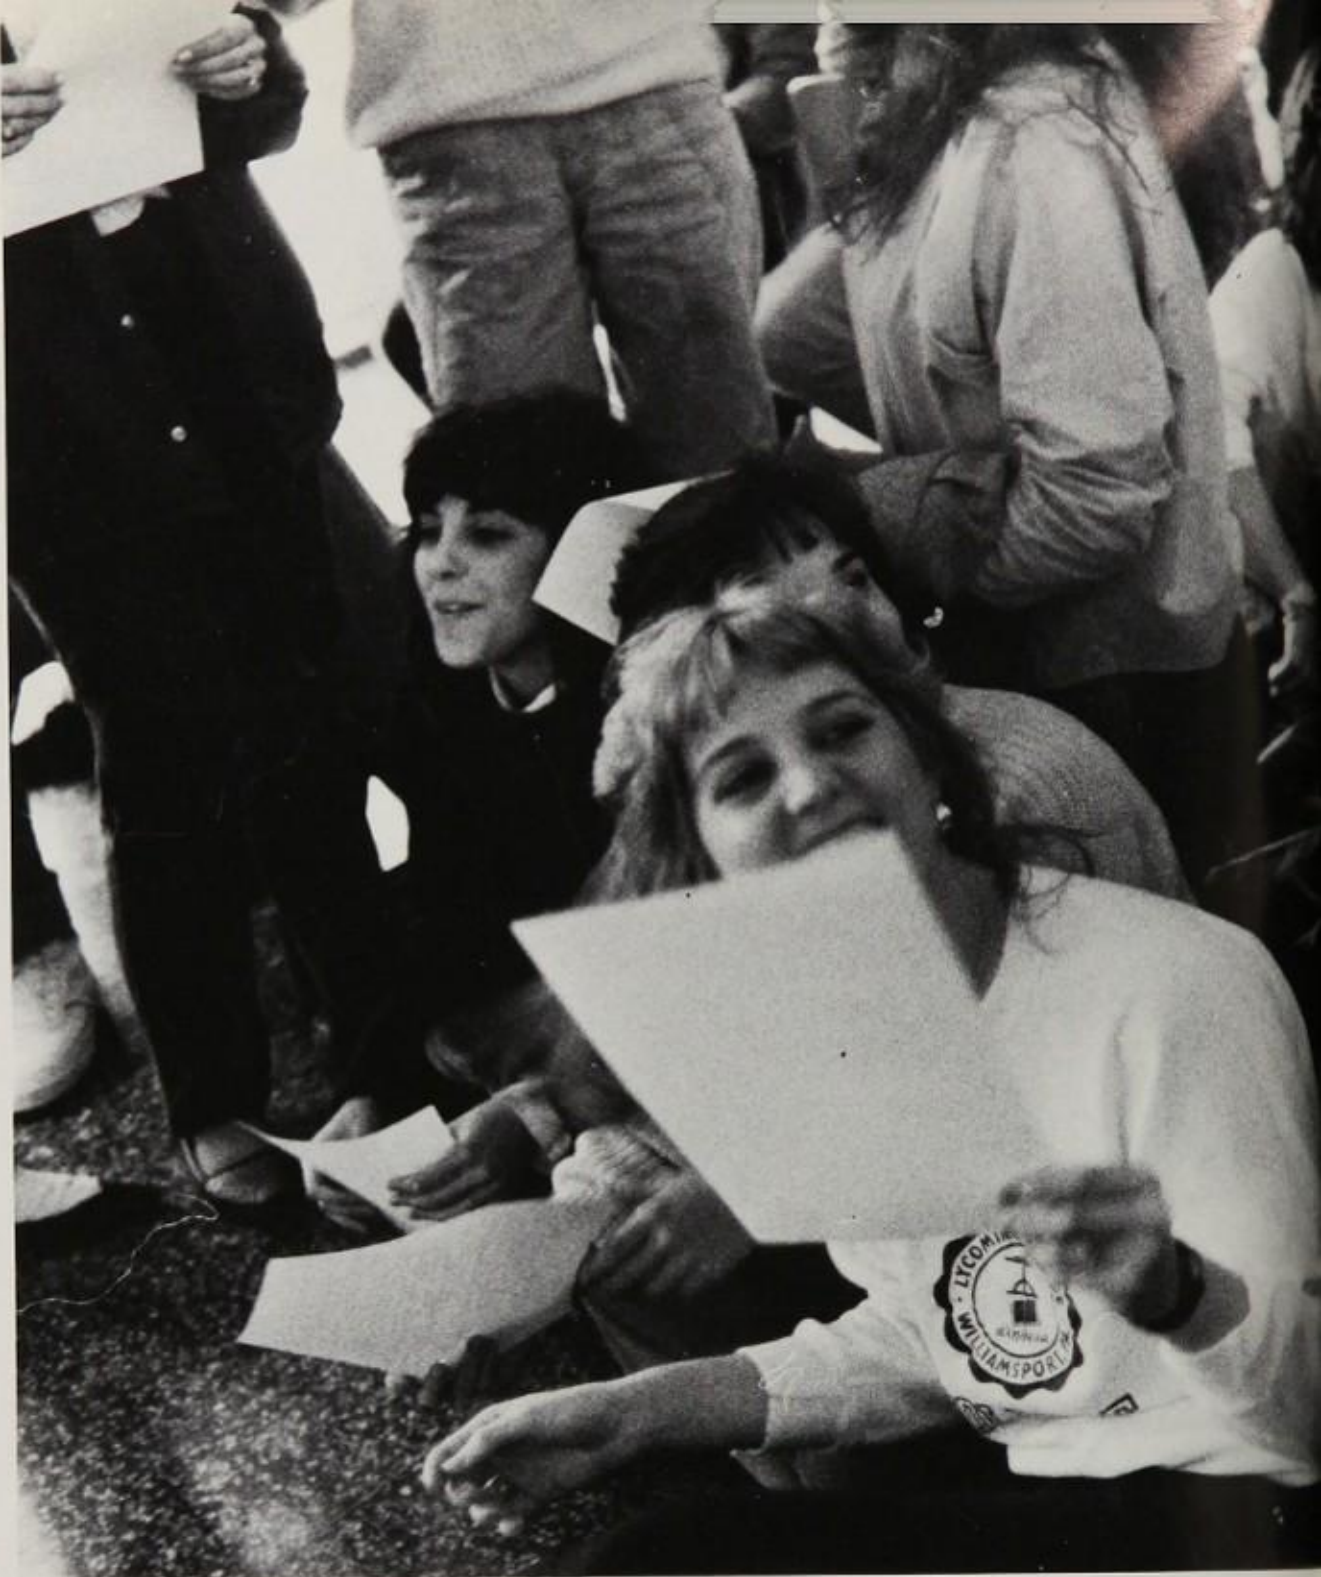

Things that the under-classmen had their slaves do ranged from just carrying their books to class for them to carrying them to class. No senior was totally abused and they said it was fun and a great way to raise money.

Senior Slave Day just might be back next year and the years to come.

Auctioned slaves accept their certificate of slavery.

A good crowd turned out for the Senior Slave Auction. Many of them with $20 or more dollars in their pocket, ready to bid.

Seniors waiting to be auctioned off stayed together next to the auction table.

Being auctioned also means having to take the jokes and fun that auctioneer Tim McCallan makes, as Senior Todd Davis found out.

Sophomore Nancy Hughes won't deny that there is a lot of work to be done for decorating before the game.

Preliminary work, good sportsmanship, and lots of fun make up the recipe for success in

POWDER PUFF

Here at Harborfields, Powder Puff has grown to be one of the biggest events of the year. What started 16 years ago as a basketball game for girls in different grades, has become an extravaganza with costumes, scenery, skits and dances . . .

WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT

... This year, Powder Puff took place on Saturday, March 2, with a competitive battle between the Sophomore and Senior classes. The Seniors won both the game and the entire competition with an overall score of 17½ to the Sophomores' 7½.

The competition begins with preliminary playoff games on dates prior to that of the "big game" between the 9th, 10th, and 11th grade classes. The winner of that tournament then goes on to play the Seniors in Powder Puff. The class of 1987 won this tournament for the second year in a row. Both teams then choose themes, which are worth 3 points in the competition, for the ultimate game. The Seniors chose "Seniors Take a Bite Out of Crime" and the Sophomores chose "Sophomores Through the Holidays."

One member of each class is chosen to design a cover for the program. Lorna Libert did the Seniors' and won 2 points in the competition for the Senior class.

Another part of the competition is ticket sales, worth 2 points. Whichever class sells the most tickets by a certain time wins this aspect of the competition. The Seniors also won this. Other parts of the competition include: costumes, worth 3 points, decorations, worth 5 points, sportsmanship, worth 2 points, cheers, worth 3 points, and the game, worth 5 points.

The entire competition was very close. If the Sophomores had won the game, Powder Puff would have been a tie.

The Girls Athletic Council has sponsored this event for the past 26 years. The money raised goes toward summer camp for the school's athletes. Dr. Wilcox has run Powder Puff. Thanks to her, Powder Puff has been one of the most fun, exciting, and successful occasions of the school year.

Senior Chris Johnston describes one of the cases in one of the seniors' courtroom skits.

Many weeks of rehearsal time, hard work, and fun came to a successful ending on March 15th, 16th, and 17th, as the Theater Company presented their annual musical. This year, they performed Rogers' and Hammerstein's "Oklahoma!"

The show takes place just after the turn of the century in the Indian Territories, soon to be named the State of Oklahoma. Lead roles included: Senior Doug Venuti as Curly and Junior Stacey SanGiovanni as his girlfriend, Laurey, Junior Sharon Tashman as Aunt Eller, Senior Chrissy Lawless as Ado Annie, Senior Jim Howard as Will, and Senior Jim Kremens as Ali Hakim the peddler. Senior Ray Lewis played Jud, Senior Alan Williams played Andrew Carnes, Senior Jeff McMillan played Ike Skidmore, Junior Chris Springer played Fred, a farmer, and Junior Charlie Norwesh played Slim, a cowman. Sophomore Jenny Dore danced as Dream Laurey in the Dream Ballet. Besides these leads, there were many chorus members and dancers to help make the show a success.

The show wouldn't have been so successful without the direction of Mrs. Springer, the vocal direction of Mr. Czina, the choreography of Patti Gerdik Dohn, the orchestra conductor, Mr. Talluto, the accompanist, Christine Dore, and the "costuming" of Mrs. Fichtel. Chris Griffith and John Tartaglione painted the backdrop and Debbie Sperling and Renee Mesard were stage managers. The set builders and painters, the tech crew, the publicity and ticket committees, and the playbill editors also worked extremely hard for this show. Without all of these backstage committees, big show like "Oklahoma!" can never be a success.

Although many rehearsals were long and sometimes frustrating, all of that hard work payed off the nights of the performances. The cast, crew, and orchestra woke up and lit up to put on one of the best shows that Harborfields has ever seen.

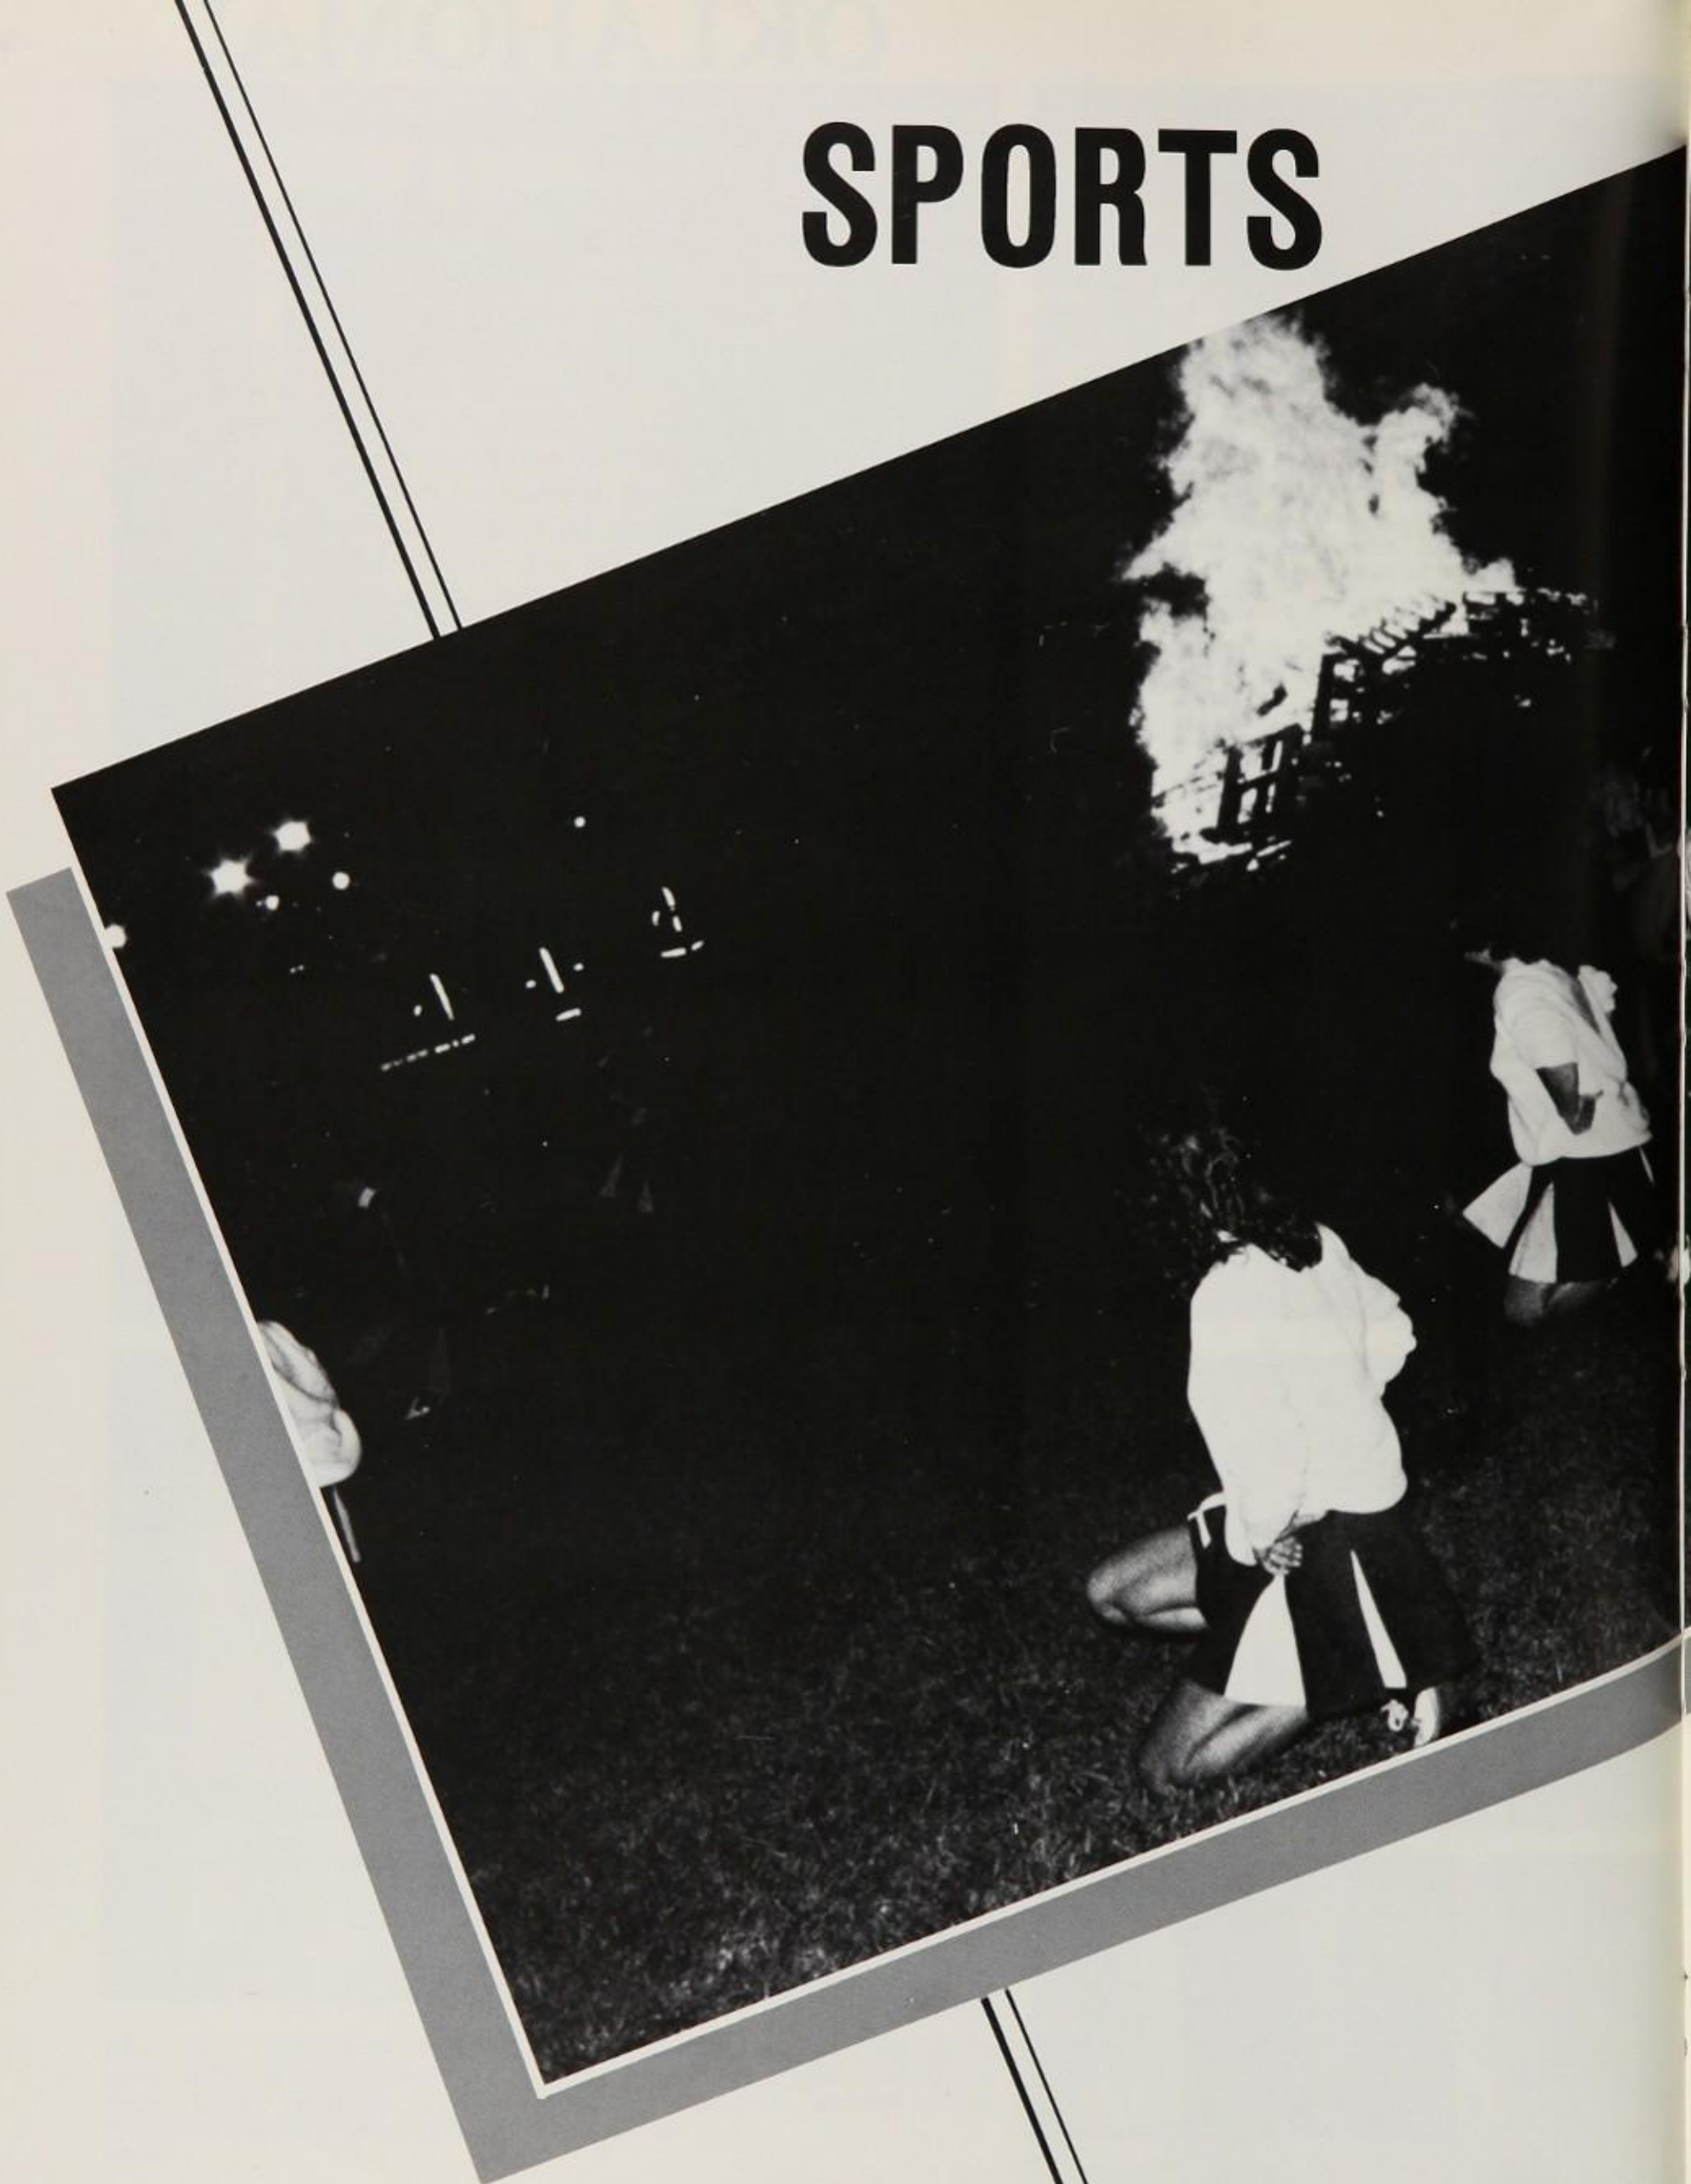

Ali Hakim tells Laurey how much he sees she has grown since he last saw her as Aunt Eller and Ado Annie look on.

The entire cast sings the finale "Oklahoma!"

Will tells Ado Annie it's "All 'er Nuthin'."

WINTER SPORTS

BASKETBALL • BOWLING • TRACK • WRESTLING

With an outstanding year, the J.V. Basketball team is following in the footsteps of the Varsity Team — Soon to be the

NEXT IN LINE

This year's Junior Varsity team displayed a lot of talent and aggressiveness in recording a fine league record of 10 wins and 4 losses and 12-6 overall. During one stretch the Tornadoes put together a winning streak of 7 games while beating every league opponent at least once.

The team was led by co-captain Derrick Robinson, who averaged 13.3 points per game, highlighted with 26 points vs. Islip, 24 vs. Glenn, and 21 vs. Wyandanch. Strong support was contributed by William Thomas, who averaged 10.9 points per game (22 vs. Amityville) and John Donovan, who averaged 10.1 points per game (22 vs. Wyandanch, 20 vs. Amityville, 20 vs. Babylon). William also tied for the team lead in assists (42) and steals (75) with co-captain Mike Guttman. John Donovan led the team in offensive and defensive rebounds with Mike Guttman finishing second in both categories.

The team's success was due to a complete team effort with contributions from every team member. Congratulations on a fine season.

Both teams stand, ready for the rebound.

Feint! That is definitely not a good direction for the pass.

A Championship Team

The Commack South win clinched it: Harborfields Varsity Basketball team was in the playoff tournament for Suffolk County! We beat Patchogue in the first round by one outrageous point! (51-50). The quarterfinals were a sell-out and we never played better, demolishing Huntington 68-47. As this goes to press we meet Centereach in the semi-finals.

Here are some personal victories for this year's team:

Ray Alburg, Roger Morgan and Bryan Myles made all league.

Ray Alburg also made All-county.

And Coach Joe Mayer was voted Coach of the Year in League five.

Congratulations to all for an awesome season.

Girls' Varsity Basketball

The girls' basketball team had a big turnaround this year. Coached by William Hennessy and led by Sondra Walters and Linda Zimmerman, the team was much improved. The players consisted of seven sophomores, one junior and three seniors (two of which are all-league players).

This year was different from any other year in the past. The girls' varsity team had a chance to be in the playoffs; but, due to complications, the team had to pull out. Because of a change in leagues, Harborfields had to come up against State finalist Wyandanch, twice. The team was 7 wins and 7 losses.

The outlook for next year is positive, since many of the girls are going to attend a summer camp. Senior Sondra Walters will continue her basketball career in college.

We are all looking forward to an even more successful season next year and a second chance to be in the playoffs.

Jump high for the ball, Harborfields!

Warming up for a game, Sondra Walters goes for a lay-up.

This calls for a toss up.

During a time-out, Coach Hennessy gives the team some strategy.

Girl's Junior Varsity Basketball

On Its Way Up . . .

The 1984-1985 J.V. Girls' Basketball Team triumphs over Wyandanch, a previously unbeaten team. We all worked very hard to overcome them after we were beaten in our first game against them 33-54. The more difficult our opponents were, the harder we played to beat them. Our final record was 9 wins to 5 losses, with most of our wins coming late in the season. The captains of the team are Cindy Williams and Andre Roemer. Although our team is young, we have several seasoned players who will be trying out for the Empire State games this summer. We are already great; so just wait until we make it to varsity!

GIRLS' VARSITY BOWLING

The Varsity Girls' Bowling Team used this year as a building year for themselves. The team lost all of their matches, not because they didn't try, but because they were an inexperienced team with only one bowler remaining from last year's team.

The team, like the boys' team, had one practice per week, with at least two matches. They participated in a Holiday tournament in December. The girls tried hard for the duration of the season, but, because of their lack of experience, they were unable to keep up with the other teams in the league. They did break a record, though. In all the years that there has been a girls' bowling league, there has never been a team that hadn't won a game. Our team managed to do just that!

The coach, Mr. Mugavin, is hoping for a more successful season next year, with a more experienced team.

Just throw your bags over there and lets get down to bowling.

PIN BUSTERS!

The Varsity Boys' Bowling Team, otherwise known as the "Harborfields Pin Buster," finished the season with an overall record of 7-10. Although the team only finished in sixth place out of seven teams, the team still worked hard and the spirit was there right up until the end.

The team had a very rigorous schedule, with one practice until 5:00 and at least two matches, lasting about three hours each, per week. During the practices, the boys bowled approximately three games against each other. Their coach, Mr. Hartling, helped them with what they were doing wrong. Many of the matches were very competitive, with the team losing many games by five pins or less. The team participated in a Singles-Doubles Tournament on January 21 at Sayville and, the Conference Team Tournament in the beginning of February.

With the team's high bowler being a freshman, (Travis Reynolds with a 167 average), the team hopes for a more successful season next year, with at least as much spirit and sportsmanship as this year.

And it look likes another strike for Mitch Goldberg.

Let's see if we can figure out how to get this spare.

Many people think that all winter track is standing outside in shorts and a tee shirt in the freezing cold, running on a track. Well, winter track's not all fun and games, but we've had our share of snowball fights. The invitationals also helped make the season interesting. Our invitational at Yale was a 2-day track meet, so we stayed overnight in a hotel. The meets at Farmingdale College were indoors. Everyone brought their pillows and blankets and hung out in the middle of the track, where they could rest until they had to run. The track is rubber and short and it makes running there unusual.

Our captains were Shari Friedman and Anne Frederick. Some of the runners that had a winning season were Jenny Campbell, Shari Friedman, Nancy Hughes, Stephanie Calia, and Anne Frederick. Allison Hilsky always placed in the walk and was seated 4th in the conferences and also made it to county's. Our two shotputters — Janice Haeni and Lisa Fusaro, also had excellent season. Janice has the school record and Lisa, who is a freshman, is very close. Both Janice and Lisa are in the county championships.

All in all, we had a really fun season. Quite a few athletes went to the conferences and to the county's. The underclassmen are looking forward to a winning season next year.

Despite their losing record the boys track team had a very respectable season. In addition to the dual meets, the team took part in the Centerreach Christmas Relays. The class meets at Farmingdale Community College, the Yale Invitational and the Suffolk Coaches Relays. The team performed well at these and the conference and county championships, with Russell Leggio and John McQueeney making all-league. They were also the captains of the team.

Coach Mike McCarthy gives some pointers to Arioeh Griffiths as they wait in the center of the track at Farmingdale. It's the last run of the season, and an Invitational.

Boys J.V. and Varsity Wrestling

Wrestling is considered controlled violence. There are a lot of restrictions and it's fairly easy to get a penalty. It's important to concentrate and act at the same time. J.V. and Varsity practiced every day after school together and went to meets together, which made them get very close, like a family.

These are the Harborfields' wrestlers that went on to the counties.

Pat Zaweski coached our girls team this season. She was very supportive. We worked very hard due to Ms. Zaweski's willingness to spend time above and beyond the call of duty.

Although our record does not show our effort, we are a young team and expect to do really well in years to come. One member of our team, Laurie Moon, made conferences, finishing fourth on the uneven bars. In counties, she came in tenth. This is quite an achievement for such a young gymnast!

The gymnastic team sits and watches as each gymnast reveals her talents.

The girls Varsity tennis team finished their season this year with a second place title in League V. Coach Louis Mangan was happy with the tennis season which runs from August through October. The team also came in second place in the East Hampton Invitational. The League record is 6-4.

Senior captains Lisa Pagano and Eileen Fox along with their twelve other teammates practiced every day and had a lot of matches on Saturday afternoon. The team's toughest opponent was Commack South. But next year they plan to beat them. Good Work Varsity tennis.

The JV Soccer program at Harborfields was very successful this year. Head Coach, Mr. John O'Hara, kept a very disciplined team throughout the 1984 season. The team won ten games and lost four which is considered very good in League V competition.

The team prepared for each game with practices every day after school from 3 to 5 o'clock. The players built up their skills in the game considerably. Game days occurred either once or twice a week for about two months. Players looked forward to playing arch rivals such as John Glenn, Commack South, and Amityville.

The soccer program at Harborfields deserves a lot of credit and is very exciting for anyone wanting to play soccer.

FLYING FINISH

After a slow start to a season that looked pretty grim after the third straight loss, the J.V. football team rallied in a big way.

Coach Gary Aumiller's

psychology had its effect. Channeling enthusiasm into tough practices, "crabbing" down the field (running on all fours), teamwork and persistent effort turned the season around with five victories in a row for a flying finish!

THE DYNASTY IS BEGUN AS THE

TORNADOES TRIUMPH

The 1984 football season was a very exciting one for both the school and the members of the varsity football team. Under the new leadership of Coach Lukralle, the football team enjoyed a successful year. After losing its first two games the Tornadoes rallied back in a tremendous 1 point victory over John Glenn. This hard fought win is one that will be remembered by all those on the team for a long time to come. The rest of the season went fairly well as the season ended with a 4 win and 4 loss record. The team had its ups and downs but in the end there was a sense of gratification for all those involved. This team was also the building block for a future football dynasty at Harborfields High School.

WITH YOUTH AND POTENTIAL
IT WAS A SEASON
FRAUGHT WITH FUN FOR

FIELD HOCKEY

After winning our first league game, it looked as if it would be another winning season for HF's Varsity Field Hockey. It was not to be, but we did not do badly under the circumstances.

We had to develop both teamwork, and adapt to a new coach, Miss Irene Walters. The team was very young, with only five veteran Varsity players. The new players, green at the beginning, were an asset to the team and have great potential.

If the varsity team was young, the J.V. Team was even younger, consisting of mostly freshmen. If any team member were asked to sum up the season she would describe it as a learning experience. At field hockey camp this summer the learning will continue.

Our league did very well, with Babylon, the league champs, going on to take the county title. Harborfields was not left out of the limelight: Two of our girls, Sondra Walter and Kei Sochi, were named among the All-League players of the season.

When you're hot you're hot! Allison Hilsky gets ready to go on the field.

Ready for anything, goalie Allison Endler defends her position.

Kara Forte hits the ball away from the Harborfields' goal.

We endured the long runs from the South Gym Lockers, and the frustrations of the game, but we had fun. In fact, the favorite quote was "Are we having fun yet?" Seriously, we wrapped up the season with no hard feelings. And if the saying rings true about the future being in the hands of the youth, we're looking forward to coming back and watching awesome and talented teams wearing the green, white and gold!

August isn't vacation — not if you're a member of the girls JV Soccer team! Practice 6 days a week, and then 2 hours a day 5 days a week thru to the end of October.

"Practice paid off," enthused Ms. Kuch, the team's coach. "It was a very successful season." The team finished with 8 wins, 7 losses. "The only drawback was we didn't get as many games as we wanted, since many potential opponents dropped their JV teams. Particularly disappointing was not being able to play John Glenn.

Andrea Romer, a versatile player, was high scorer for the team. Dana Bookbinder, goalie, was injured early in the season, and was replaced by Lisa Byrom, who did a great job filling in for the rest of the season.

"It was one of the most enthusiastic teams I have ever coached," Ms. Kuch declared. "The team would like to thank the parents for their support at our games."

LIBRARY/MEDIA CENTER

In the south end of Harborfields, there is the Library. It is a great place to do serious homework, research, or to just sit and read or write away from all the noise and confusion of the usually crowded cafeteria. Although many of the students can admit that they don't know where the library is, many students can be found there every day.

Just off the library, there is the media center. You may have seen students as well as teachers pushing television sets down the hallway and many of us have seen movies in class. These all come from the media center.

Some of the sports and other activities such as plays and special programs are video taped for entertainment as well as observation and study.

The Library and Media Center provide Harborfields' students with playbacks of past plays and sports events, as well as turning a long 40 minute class into an enjoyable learning experience.

PUPIL PERSONNEL SERVICES

Every student in Harborfields has one of the (6-7) guidance counselors to go to when they need help such as dropping, switching, or adding classes. The counselors for the seniors have more to do than normal. They help the seniors with selecting and applying to colleges. Guidance is where students get information for tests like S.A.T.'s and A.C.T.'s. But Guidance holds more than counselors, it's also where the Psychologist is found. Dr. Aumiller takes an interest in the school far beyond his job. He has been seen in the last P.T.A. play and many of us, if not involved, have heard of his discussion group sessions.

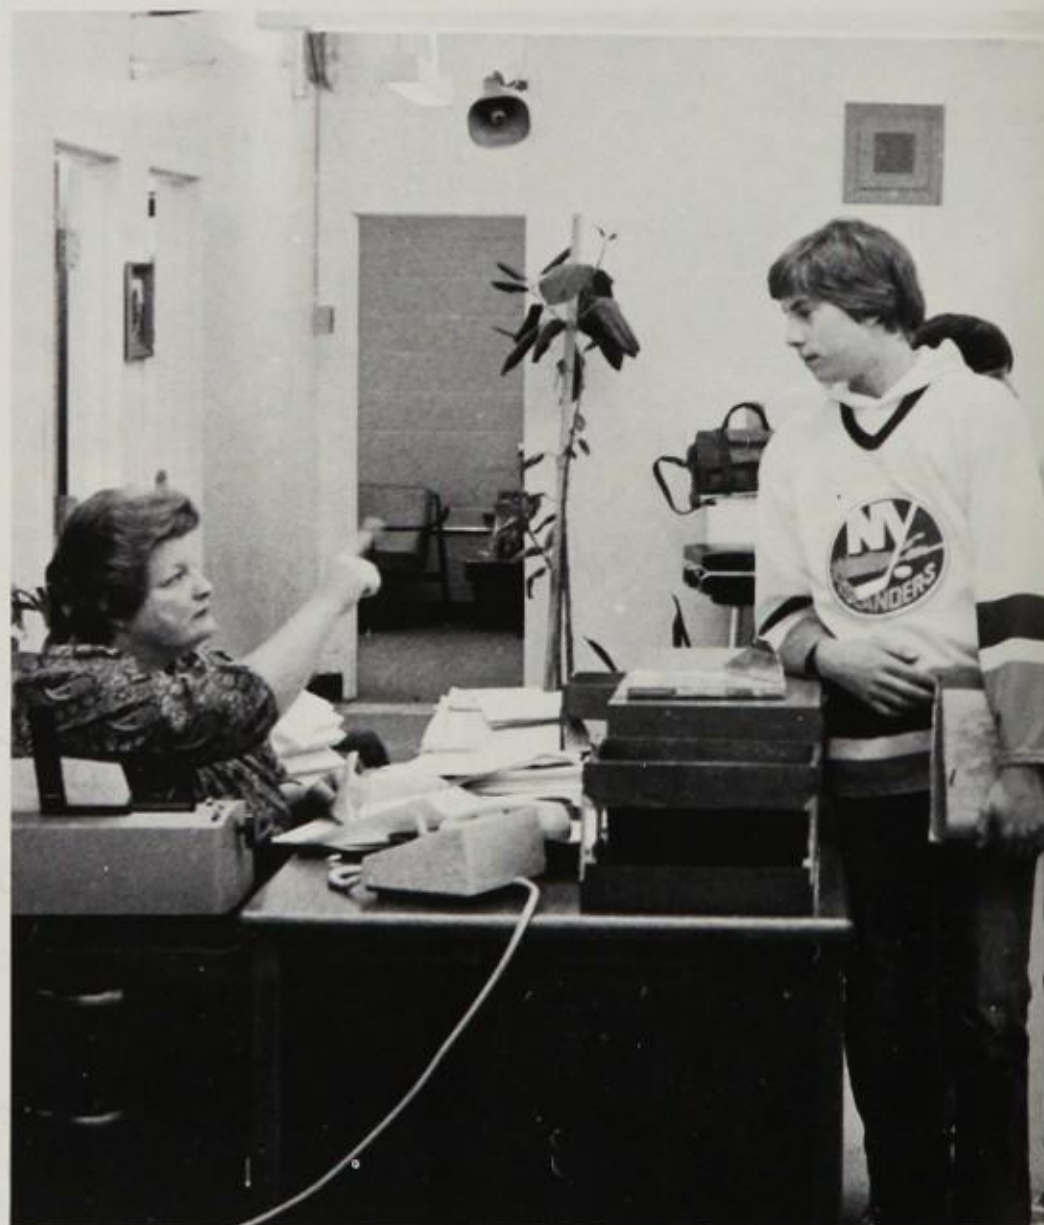

All in all Guidance is the best place to go for personal, social, or academic concerns.

NURSE'S OFFICE

"Whenever I don't feel well or whenever I need anything, I can always count on Mrs. Miltner," commented Senior Darren Brady.

The nurse's office provides bandaids, ice packs, and a resting place for ailing students. The comfort of air conditioning in spring and heating in winter make the nurse's office a popular place to loiter.

Mrs. Miltner goes above and beyond the duties of a school nurse. She endures the confusion of organizing sports physicals, giving eye and ear examinations, and takes measurements for the Senior's caps and gowns. Mrs. Miltner added, "The only way I can get the Seniors to come in for eye and ear examinations is to tell them I need cap and gown measurements."

"Did you get last night's homework?" asks Rob Uebile.

"We're almost there. Not far now. Thank goodness! I was beginning to think we'd never get this far."

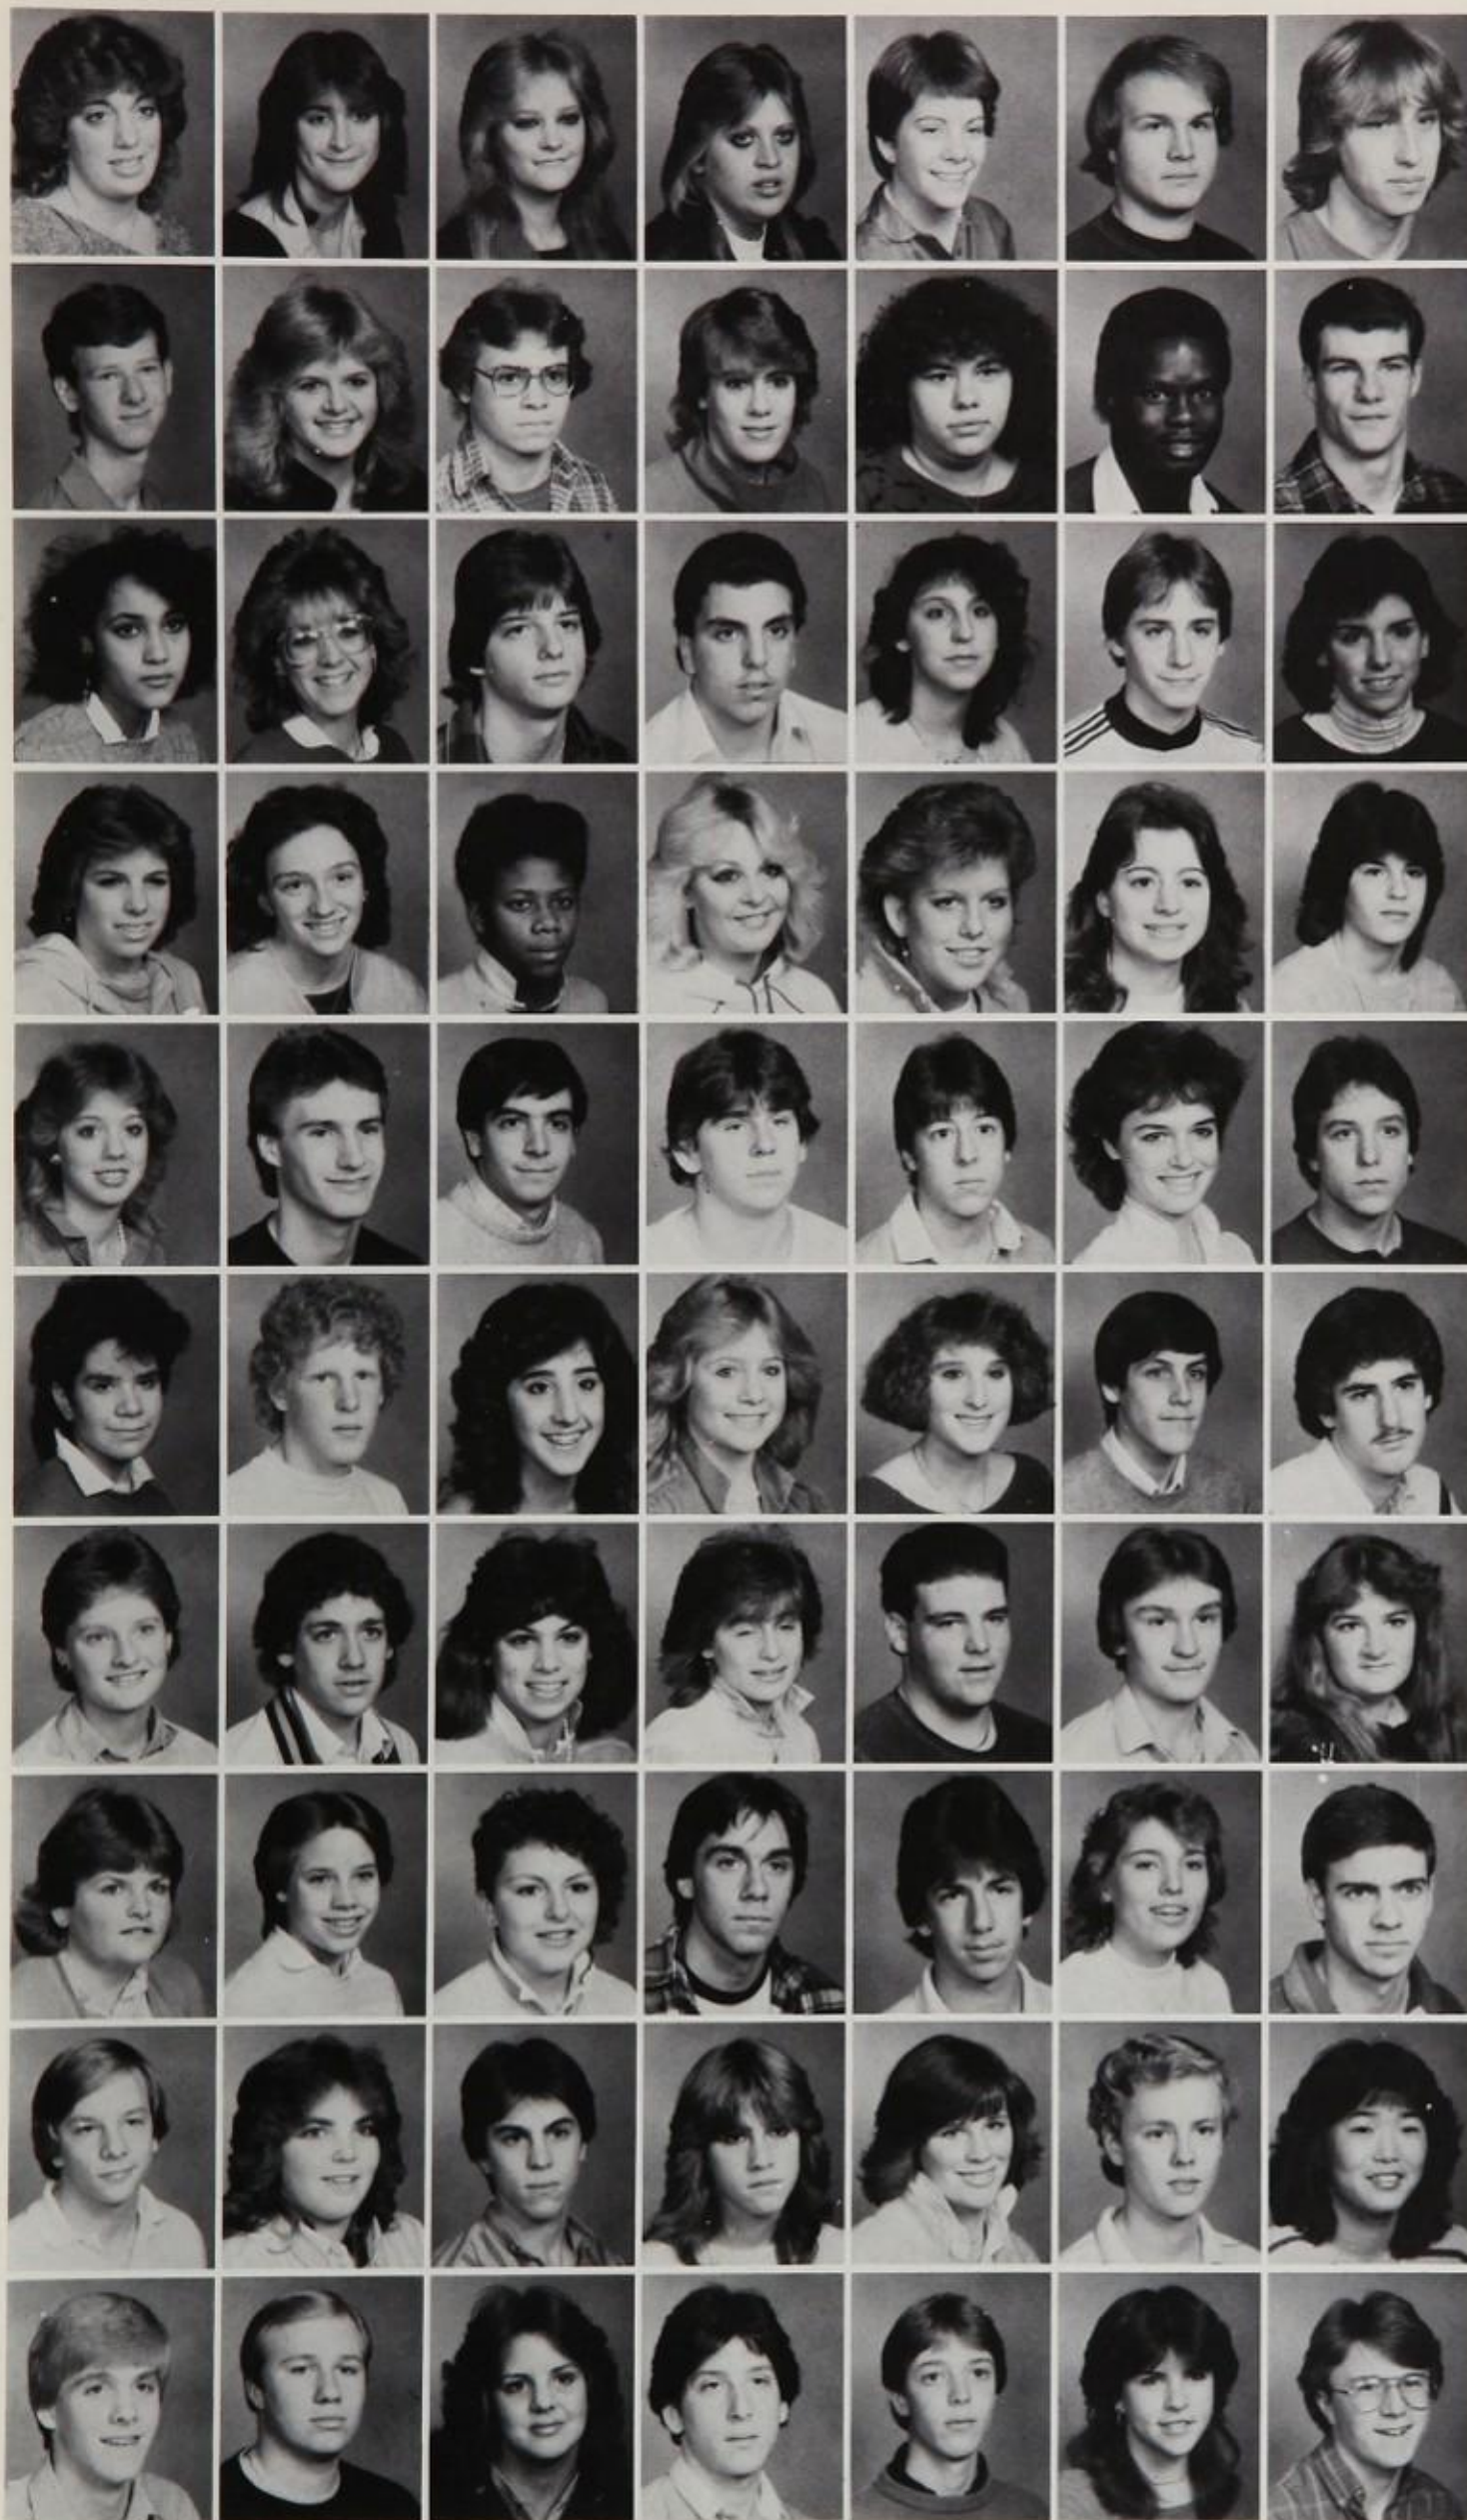

The words of a typical Junior. It's understandable. Junior year is probably the hardest year of school. Things are changing fast, emotionally and scholastically. It's hard to keep up with and sometimes you feel that there's never going to be any relief. But, relief finally comes, and you don't know how good it feels. Keep your chins up Juniors, there's only one more year till freedom.

Junior, Tracy Hackling, laughs with her friends during her art class.

Pat O'Conner avidly studies for his upcoming math test.

SENIORS

The End of the Line . . .

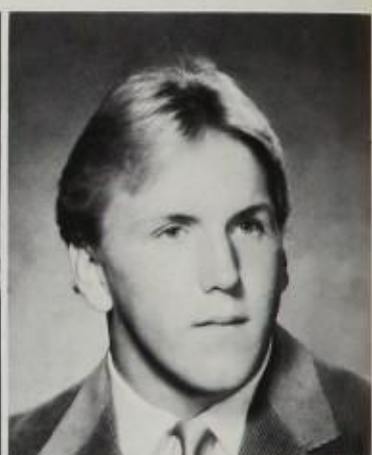

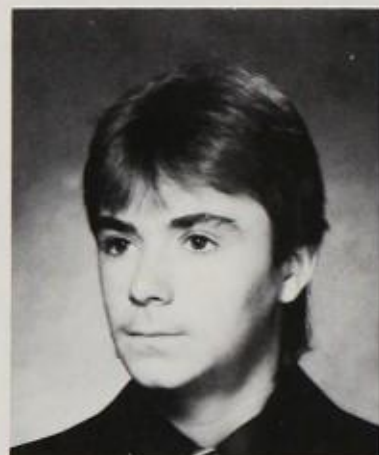

Isn't this great! All these responsibilities! And no one to tell us what to do. At least no one that we'll listen to. So many privileges.

This is what you might hear a senior saying. It's not all that great though. Don't let them fool you. Along with all the great times and feelings go the bad ones. After all it's when you're a senior that you get all the heavy responsibilities: filling out college applications, getting senior license, becoming a legal adult. But, of course, it's not all that bad either. There's the Prom at the end of the year, underclassmen looking up to you, and of course, all of the obvious everyday privileges. But the most rewarding thought that a student in his last year of High School has is that it is his last year of High School. Not that we didn't have fun and learn a lot, it just feels good to be out. But we will miss you Harborfields, and we thank you for many good years.

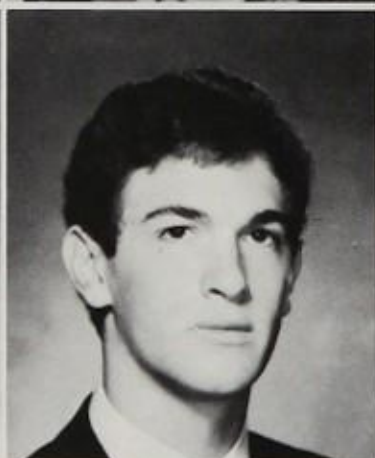

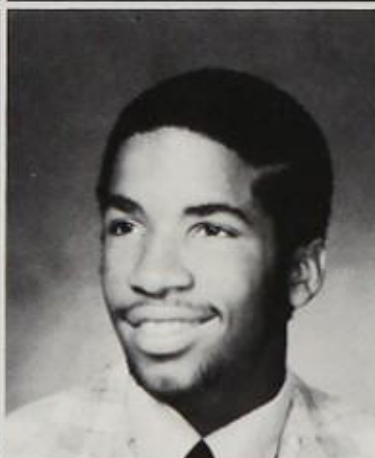

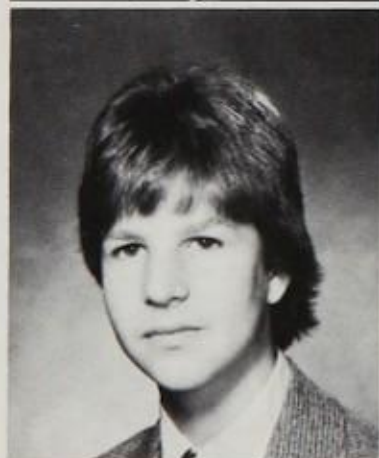

Dennis Keenan, Ian Adrian, and Mike Montaigne take a moment to use their privileges as seniors to lounge in the senior lounge.

Best and Most

Each year the seniors vote to determine which members of their class have reached the top of the line in many different categories. The numbers change from year to year, but the spirit and the tradition remain the same. The results are supposed to be a secret, revealed on the day the yearbooks come out in June. Somehow they always leak out, and much grumbling and groaning and reports of foul play filter back to the yearbook staff!

In an attempt to answer some of the questions seniors ask when the winner is not the one they expect, this reporter asked this year's staff if there had been any problems. Debbie Schmitt explained that the only problem was that voting was haphazard. "Very few seniors place names in every category," she explained. "The result is that some are very heavily voted and so, are more representative of the majority. Others are not. Sometimes they are close, but we've never had a tie that I know of. We're very careful counting them, and we keep all the original voting sheets if anyone is interested."

Congratulations, all you winners!

Senior Lounge

The music is playing, the lunch trays are piling up. It's almost the end of the day and boy does that sofa look good. This is the life! The life of a Senior in the Senior Lounge.

Located in the hall just before the North Gym, in case someone didn't know, the Senior Lounge is almost a memorial monument. Every year the graduating class leaves its mark somewhere in the lounge. In past years the lounge had a small radio for musical entertainment. This year someone volunteered a stereo, a few lounge chairs, and a few decorations for each holiday of the year. The most noticeable were the paper stockings hung from the windows with the names of the Seniors who use the lounge on them. Other Seniors choose to not use the lounge.

The lounge is the Senior's turf and no underclassmen are allowed, but obviously the rule has been broken by the underclassmen or bent by the Seniors. In past years, lounge privileges have been taken away from the Seniors for their misconducted behavior. So far this year the Seniors are in the clear. Good luck in keeping it that way Seniors ... And enjoy!

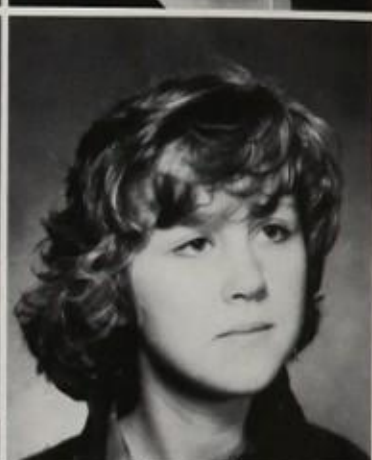

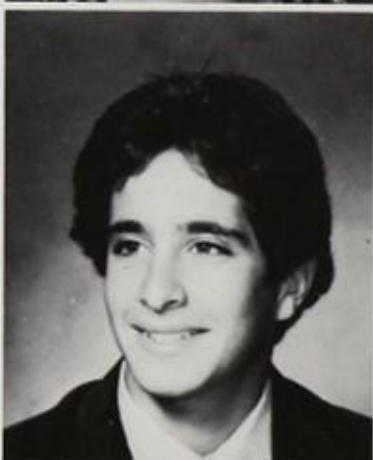

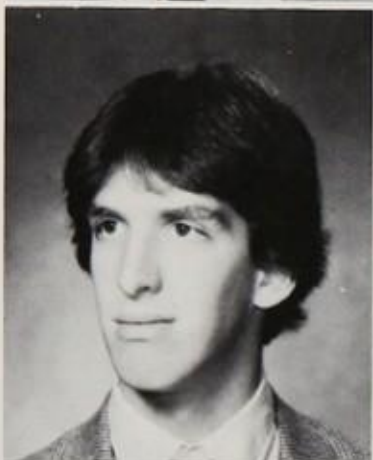

Last minute stories to be written for the yearbook keeps Senior Karen Domencetti busy before her classes begin.

Academics

Mr. Benjamin attempts to scare his class with 49. Somehow I don't think he succeeded.

"Please! No more jokes!" Mr. Domencetti tries to explain the punch line to his daily joke.

Mr. Simone conducts the 5th per. wind ensemble in "All Night Long."

Ms. Solowski listens to a complaint about a student.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

The engine roared to life as the students looked on with disbelief. They had brought the old, tired lawnmower powerplant back to life, even if it had taken almost a full semester. It ran better than it had when it was new. Now they could fix almost any two-cycle engine made.

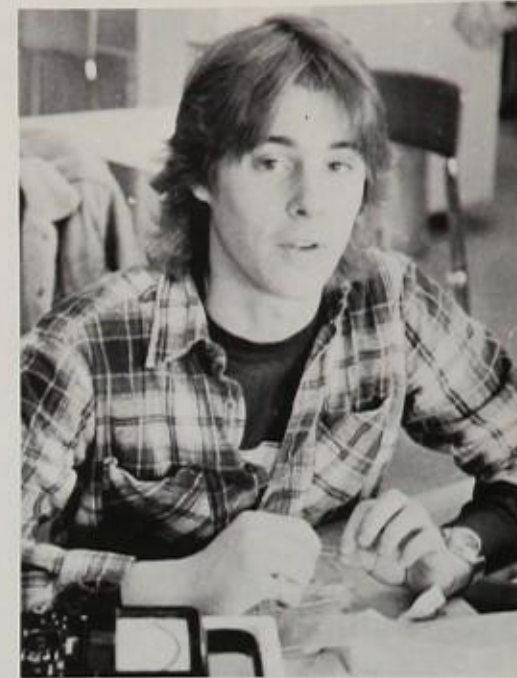

Meanwhile, back in architecture class, students were worrying about R-Values and stress points. Any student in this class could tell you that these deal with insulation and the parts of a building which support the weight of the structure.

An industrial arts course can be an exciting and rewarding experience, especially if you want to learn a practical skill, without spending a half day at a vocational school.

"Something's wrong with this voltmeter," an unidentified student complains as he attempts to repair a connection.

DRAW! A mechanical drawing class gets under way with the guidance of Mr. Indelicato.

He fell twice. His sneakers kept slipping but he had to try again . . . A flying jump off the top of a six foot fence and click — the picture was taken. This would be a great stop-action photo for Art Studio in Photography, one of the courses offered by the art department.

Mrs. Ronco's classes were tilting the wall with ceramic adaptations of drawings they had done at the beginning of the year, while students in Mr. Schwen's and Mrs. Graber's classes were creating imaginary worlds in oil paint at the front of 310.

The Art department offers expertise and guidance in both traditional and avante-garde media and portfolio development. When interviewed by this reporter, Mrs. Ronco offered this quote: "The doing of art is a totally satisfying, gladdening experience. These rooms are warm, human places for students to be, and occasionally to find, themselves."

Anchor those elbows! It takes concentration, skill and a lot of H₂O to throw a pot, as Julie Riggs knows.

Precision of a different kind goes into the film development and careful pencil work being done by Chad Gronbach and Adam Mayerson.

WAISTLINES

Students learn to shape up not only their bodies but their minds in Phys. Ed. and Health.

Do mood altering substances, birth control, stress and nutrition sound interesting to you? If so, you will enjoy the required Health classes taken in 9th and 12th grade. These courses are prerequisites for graduation which are taken for one semester each year.

In-class activities include discussions, movies, and lectures from notary officials. Students study topics ranging from stress, to CPR, to the detriments of drugs and alcohol. As Senior Todd Davis added, "I never realized that has a good side and a bad side."

Another form of stress is exercise. Can you pinch an inch? If so, then perhaps the weight training fitness program is for you. Weight training is one of the many electives offered in physical education. Courses offered range from archery to volleyball. These various activities involve the development of physical fitness and the sharpening of competitive spirit.

In this class, participation and test grades determine each student's grade for each quarter.

DISCIPLINES THE MIND, OR DRIVES IT MAD . . .

$(ex + lny)dx + x-dy=0$? What?! Get serious! Only a genius can solve that problem.

Believe it or not, some people in this school are brilliant enough to do it, and chances are that they belong to Matheletes. Matheletes is a math club run by Mr. Kissam, consisting of all the above average math students who wish to compete against other schools for a place in the division.

This year there are two AP classes and two Pre-Calculus classes for Seniors planning on using math in their college majors. For those who aren't, there are classes such as Intermediate Algebra, which takes algebra a little further than 9th grade Algebra, and regular classes. In this district, three years of math must be completed to graduate.

MUSICAL CHAIRS

The drum roll sounded and the reaction of the spectators was to stand for the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner" played by the marching band during pre-game. Half-time draws large crowds to watch the marching band execute different drills and maneuvers. After marching band season is over, the band comes inside to split up into two bands, the Symphonic Band and the Wind Ensemble, to begin rehearsals for the winter concert. Some of the band members also play in the orchestra and the stage band, which practice from the beginning of the year to also present a winter concert.

The choir is made up of students who wish to sing and they meet during school as a credited class. Within the choir there are students who are members of the Madricals, Harborlights, and Harbornights, who meet and rehearse under their own supervision. They also perform in the winter concert.

Other classes that meet during the day are guitar, taught by Mrs. Sumner, theory class, taught by Mr. Czena, and the conducting class, taught by Mr. Domencetti.

THE REAL EQUILIBRIUM

When asked what teachers they thought were the weirdest, the Harborfields students voted in the Science Department.

"Great! I never had so much fun and learned so much at the same time," commented Senior Karen Domencetti as she remembers 10th grade Biology and her teacher, Mr. Benjamin. This year many Seniors are taking Physics and AP Biology. Next year, Honors Physics and AP Physics will be added to the courses already offered.

An interview with Mr. Landers, the head of the department, surfaced a hopeful change for 9th and 10th graders in the future. Physics is going to be taken before Chemistry to give students a better idea of the mathematics involved in Chemistry.

Students favorite things to do during their science classes include: leaving the gas on until everyone in the room is "flying," mixing elements and compounds, that they were told specifically not to mix together, to see the pretty colors they make, and others that are unmentionable.

Grants and scholarships are awarded to students with high Science averages to aid them in college.

CULTURALLY SPEAKING

Learning about history and ideology, while explaining the rituals of the Ancient Romans, students are learning — culturally.

The Social Studies department offers a variety of courses for students to fulfill graduation requirements ranging from Psychology to Afro/Asian Studies. Students must have three credits in Afro/Asian Studies, World History, and American History to meet graduation requirements. These courses are taken in 9th-11th grade, and are geared to bring success on the 11th grade Regents taken in June.

LANGUAGE LINKS

Students speak and listen, travel and learn a wide range of languages, from German to Japanese.

Opportunities opened up for those students interested in studying a foreign language. Instructors cover various approaches emphasizing speaking, reading, writing, and listening skills in effort to make a challenging subject more interesting.

This year Japanese was added to the curriculum of languages — including French, German, Spanish, Latin, and Italian. Mr. Pavone teaches his Japanese with great enthusiasm due to his infatuation with languages. As Junior Pam Sampson commented, "Japanese sounds so different. It was really hard to get used to it."

For a cultural enrichment of the language, eight students from Harborfields went to Italy to learn about the language and culture they are learning in class. Sophomore Karen Schiliro said, "I had the absolute best time over there. Everyone was so excited to go, and the people I met were so interesting."

The English curriculum covers topics ranging from grammar to the history of the English language.

Honors English, Regular English, or English Skills are required for graduation. Teachers group students into one of these classes according to their work habits, degree of motivation, and basic skills.

As the average student takes Regular English, the more advanced student takes Honors English or possibly AP English in the 12th grade.

Elective courses offered include Effective Communications, Drama Workshop, Public Speaking, and Writing Lab.

Special Education

Only recently has it been recognized that learning disabilities hamper the school behavior and performance of otherwise normal, often talented and highly intelligent young people. Albert Einstein was learning disabled, after all!

Our special education program was developed to meet the needs of those students who were found, through observation and testing, to have a learning disability. The teachers work on an individual basis with their students during some portion of the day, so that they may follow a normal schedule the rest of the time. This individual assistance with specific disabilities can often reduce or overcome them completely in terms of performance levels in school. We are very lucky to have such a fine program.

ALTERNATE SCHOOL PROGRAM

The students in ASP hang together — as you can probably tell from the photos on these pages! They are a close knit group of students who have their home base in room 308. Through group meetings, camaraderie and the close supervision of Mike Siese, they hope to overcome the bad habit of not going to classes regularly.

Instructive field trips enhance the feeling of responsibility to the group — notably the "survival training" excursions taken at the beginning of each year. In this, each student must literally trust his/her physical safety to the group through a series of real exercises that teach survival in extreme situations.

On special occasions, ASP students cook meals, invite other members of staff and administration to attend as guests, and, in general, operate much the way a family does. It is a home away from home, and has been very successful to date. Keep it up, ASP!

Here come the elephants. ASP tops to take a break at the Museum of Natural History. It's great, but it sure is tiring!

CHARACTER, SCHOLARSHIP, LEADERSHIP AND SERVICE ARE CHARACTERISTICS OF MEMBERS OF THE

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

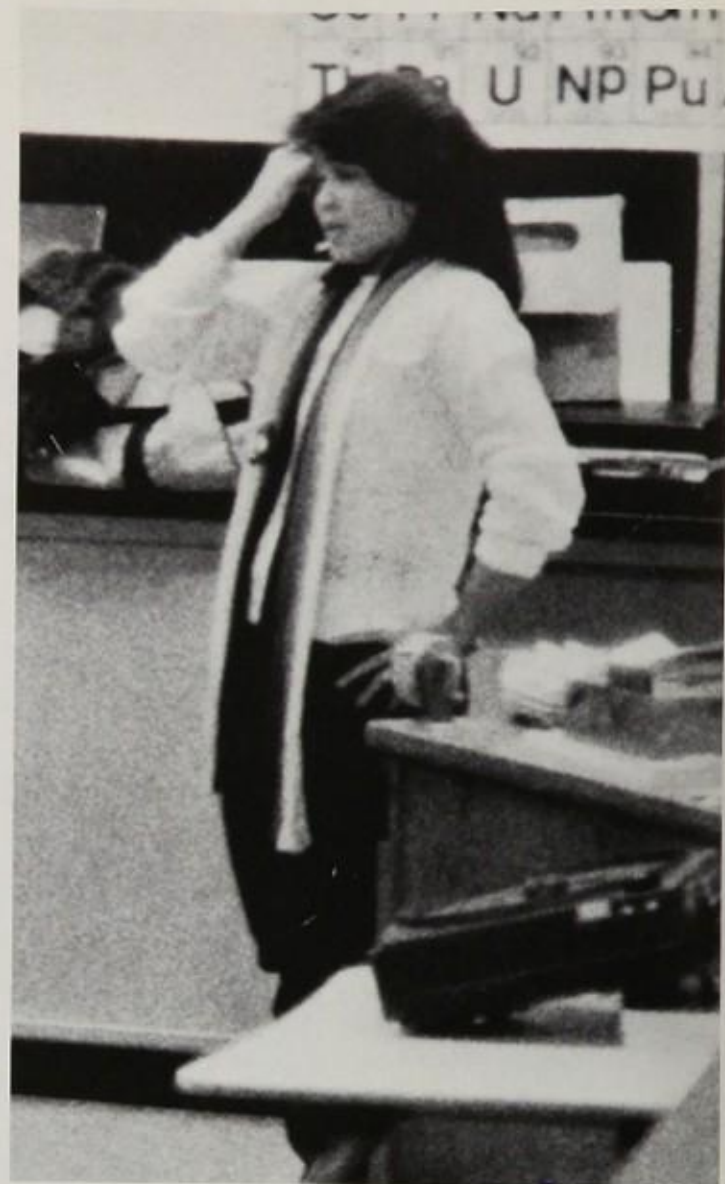

The National Honor Society consists of eleventh and twelfth grade students with cumulative averages of 90.000 or better. These cumulative averages are of ninth thru eleventh grade for seniors and ninth and tenth grade for juniors. Along with the 90-average requirement, students also must qualify under the characteristics of leadership, service, and character. Once inducted into the Honor Society, students must keep a 90 average throughout the year and participate in various service projects, such as tutoring and helping out at various school functions. This year's advisor is Mr. Shuttleworth.

ZEPHYR

Zephyr, our literary magazine, is an annual publication which comes out at the end of each school year. It consists of outstanding examples of students poetry, personal and literary essays, song lyrics, and short stories. This year's advisors are Dr. Lemonedes, Mrs. Emmerling, and Mrs. Redgate. Students meet weekly to edit work that has been turned in.

Members of the Zephyr staff work hard at editing students' literary works.

J.V. & VARSITY CHEERLEADING

"Hello and welcome we're glad that you came. We wish you luck in today's game!" So say the Harborfields cheerleaders to opposing teams.

Practice begins in early June, two weeks before tryouts. Thirty girls are chosen from approx. 100: 14 J.V. cheerleaders and 16 Varsity cheerleaders. Once teams are chosen there is practice every Tuesday and Thursday from July through February.

During that time both squads of cheerleaders attend home and away games for football and basketball.

Cheerleaders also compete against squads from other schools. We placed well in the competition last year.

Kickin' up their heels

The 1985 Harborfields Drill Team had an exciting and rewarding season this year. As you probably already know, the Drill Team is a group of girls who perform at all home basketball and football games and at Long Island Kickline Association (L.I.K.A.) competitions at SUNY at Old Westbury. In their first competition this year, the girls captured second place.

Part of the team's success is due to their attendance at Drill Team camp at Trenton State University this summer. They travelled by bus to the five day camp, where they practiced nonstop (except for lunch and sleep) for four days and put on a show on the last day, doing a great job, as usual. Said junior Missy Holland about the camp, "I think it helped, because it brought us all together, and we all had an excellent time!"

The camp may have helped, but most of their excellence has been brought about by their hard work and Advisor John Shuttleworth's dedication.

Keeping close to keep warm, juniors Pam Sampson and Kerri Wilhelms watch as the events at Hofstra begin.

After halftime, the Drill Team members can be seen frequently getting their jackets from Mr. Shuttleworth's car.

Following Captains Natalie Adragna, Dawn Roe, and Meg Kirschner, the girls follow up the Homecoming parade.

JAZZ, SOLOS, IMPROVIZATION...
ALL HAVE TO DO WITH THE STAGE BAND

Members of the stage band work very hard for one and a half hours on Wednesday nights to perfect their music in preparation for the Jazz Festival in March and their concerts. The stage band consists of brass instruments, percussion, guitars, and an electric keyboard. They play mostly jazz music. Most songs that they play have one or more solos in them, some solos are improvised and others are written in the music. All of their band members work pays off because they always give top quality performances.

BOYS AND GIRLS LEADERS

To be a Girls or Boys leader, there are some requirements one must have. First, one must have a certain grade average. But probably the most important requirement is how much one participates within the school and in the community. This is important because, of course, the Girls and Boys Leaders do so many activities in the school. They sold candygrams at Christmastime and Valentine's. In past years they have decorated for dances at the school and done car washes. If you like to help out around the school and have a good grade average, you may become a Boys or Girls Leader too.

Ilene Fox and Jeanine Bruno try to read the secret holiday messages without anyone noticing.

MATHLETES

The Mathletes Club is a group that, as its name suggests, works out math problems and does so under the careful guidance and supervision of the world-renowned mathematics professor, Mr. Toby Kissam. The group itself is rather informal but is composed of students who not only have a knack for math but also a solid interest in the subject. There has to be a willingness to concentrate and work out problems intuitively rather than simply applying formulas and laws robotically as can be done by any computer or calculator.

The activities of the group consist of monthly competitions with three of our other schools locally. The results are then sent to a county-wide competition in which the top teams in Suffolk county are recognized at a formal dinner and awards ceremony. The individual meets themselves have a rather social and relaxed atmosphere with plenty of gooey donuts and soda, which help to raise everyone's blood-sugar and caffeine levels to prepare them for the rigor of the actual competition (and if you believe that one . . .). Then a series of six questions are given to be accomplished in a limited time of between 4 and 6 minutes per question.

The Harborfields' team is doing fairly well this year, coming out on top in our division as of Feb. 15, pushing John Glenn, Northport, and Commack to miserable defeat. It is possible that our team may even place in the county. This decision had to await the results of yet unencountered competitions.

A number of our chief competitors will be leaving this year to move on and apply the vast talents and skills gained through the Mathletes to the world in yet unseen and yet unknown dimensions to bring the Light of Wisdom to the Darkness of Ignorance . . .

Above right, senior George McKee is all smiles when he realizes he can do a problem that no one else can figure out.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE CLUBS

This year, the number of foreign language clubs in the school totalled four (French Club, German Club, Italian Club, and Spanish Club).

Along with their own individual activities, together the clubs participated in National Foreign Language Week during the week of March 4th. Each day of the week, the cafeteria ladies prepared foods from five different countries (one on each day). Due to after-school rehearsals for "Oklahoma!", the main festivities took place two weeks later, during the week of March 18th, when there was a big volleyball tournament and then an international dinner to follow. Although there was a lot of competition, a fun time was had by all! Each club had little things of their own to do all year.

The French Club, with their advisor, Mrs. Khatir, started out the year with fund-raisers and then went to Peche Mignon, a French restaurant in Huntington Village. The club has seen a few French movies. Other activities include carving "L'Arc de Triomphe" out of soap, and listening to the music of popular French singers. The students have also "signed up" to get French pen pals. They planned on ending the year with a big French dinner.

The German Club also had a successful second year with the help of their advisor, Mrs. Scheef. They started out the year with a big Oktoberfest on October 24. Various German foods were cooked and brought in by German Club members, the Oompah Band played familiar German melodies, and plants and Advent calendars were raffled off. It was really a fun evening. The club also hosted a Christmas party for the Steuben Society.

The Italian Club's "main event" of the year took place from October 27th to November 10th, when eight Italian students, and the club's advisor, Mr. Pavone, went to Italy as part of an exchange program. In March of last year, Italian students came here for approximately three weeks, and, in exchange, some of our students went back there. The American students were able to go to school with the Italian students and were also fortunate to meet with the Mayor of Genoa, as well as to see many familiar Italian sights.

The Spanish Club, since this was the first year of existence, with their advisor, Mrs. Khatir, used this year as a building-year. They had many fund-raisers in order to build a solid treasury. They had a small "fiesta" to celebrate Three Kings Day, where various members baked different types of Spanish "goodies" and they listened to Spanish music.

Students need not take foreign languages to join these clubs. They are a lot of fun and offer many different activities.

STUDENT UNION

Where service is the name of the game

Sometimes school can be down right depressing. Work, work and more work, that's all we seem to do. At one time or another during our high school years we've all, some more than others, felt locked in and frustrated with our daily activities. In many cases it's not nearly enough to just sit in a noisy cafeteria or be held in silence through an agonizing study hall. There must be another way to relieve our painful tensions and suppress our negative feelings. The way of the wise is a visit to your friendly Student Union. Here with its laid back atmosphere and non-demanding attitude one can regain his or her self esteem which enables one to face the remaining portion of the day with a renewed outlook and regenerated powers.

The Student Union's effect on its patrons by no means stops there. The Union's arms extend far beyond its outermost walls reaching at one point in time every student and teacher alike in Harborfields.

DID YOU KNOW:

The Student Union is a completely self supported organization with all finances generated through its own programs and activities.

All profits at the end of each year are donated to the various clubs and organizations to insure their survival and ease their financial burdens.

All moneys collected specifically from the Student Union recyclable can drive will be donated to aid the unfortunately starving children in Ethiopia.

Each year the Student Union awards a special academic scholarship to a deserving senior. This year's scholarship will be $500.00.

From more of an athletic point of view, the Student Union sponsors several scholarships helping many students who wish to attend summer athletic camps.

Socializing is the Student Union's key role in school and these boys are doing just that.

The Student Union has helped our athletes to a far greater extent by donating a substantial amount of money towards the purchase of the universal gym on which they now train.

The Coca-Cola company's donation of our new $3,000 football scoreboard situated on our football field was made possible solely through the dealings of the Student Union.

The large school banner displayed by our Color Guard at all of the performances by legendary Harborfields Marching Band was donated by the Student Union.

The Student Union operated the Harborfields Book Store which carries a vast supply of pens, pencils, notebooks and cut-rate review books in Biology, Earth Science, History, Chemistry and Physics.

Yes, the Student Union has much more to offer than the obvious soda, pool, football and pingpong. Its service stretches far beyond the more than 500 to 600 students who pass through its doors each day. There is but one person who can be credited for the incredible success of the Student Union. The Student Union staff and the entire student body thanks Mr. Emory Butts for his masterful creation.

Let the Student Union be part of YOUR day.

The 1984-85 Harborfields Dance Company, run by advisor Patti Dohn, had a very successful year.

Patti has choreographed both Dance Company and Theater Company, including this year's musical, Oklahoma!

During the year, the Company did numerous dances and warm-up exercises to familiar pop artists including The Jackson, The Pointer Sisters, and Huey Lewis and The News. They give performances in the other schools of the district to maintain the discipline required in dancing to an audience. Also, they like it! We do, too.

PRINCIPAL'S ADVISORY COUNCIL

Mr. Taylor, Sid Gardner, Beth Kushnik, Kei Sochi, Navey Hughes, Heather Pyke, Ann Sochi, Jill Nussbaum, Andrew Atkins.

Students sometimes feel that the battle lines between themselves and the school's administration are very firmly drawn and uncrossable. But the Principal's Advisory Committee, a group of students who meet with the Principal twice a month, seeks to cross those lines and improve communication.

During the past year, the topics of the PAC's dialogues with Mr. Taylor have ranged from the smoking patio, cafeteria and announcements to testing and curriculum changes.

The PAC is open to suggestions and participation from all students because school can be a problem for almost anyone somewhere along the line.

THE LURE OF PICTURES

This year, the Photography Club consisted of both experienced photographers and people who were interested in learning a little about cameras and darkroom procedures. The students helped compile pictures for both yearbook and Newspaper, as well as doing projects of their own.

Helping to keep the spirit alive at football and basketball games is the job of the

PEP BAND

Pep Band: a group of approximately 15-20 members of the Marching Band (and one seventh-grade drummer) who cheers the football team on at away-games and the basketball team on at home-games.

The Pep Band plays familiar tunes such as the "Fight Song" and "Go Green Go" to either help cheer the team on when they score, or to get the team out of a rut when they haven't scored in a while. The purpose of the Pep Band is to help lead the football and basketball teams on to victory. At halftime, after the cheerleaders and Drill Team have finished, the Pep Band uses the left-over time to entertain spectators with some of the marching music, such as "Maniac" or "Son of a Preacher Man."

The Pep Band had a very successful year this year under the leadership of co-captains Hillary Fink and Julie Howell. Buttons were ordered and delivered to each Pep Band member in time for the basketball season so that people would know who the band members were. Also, at almost every basketball game, there was a theme, such as "Hat and Shades" or "College Sweatshirts," which described how each member should dress. There is no theme for the away-football games; instead, it was a kind of contest to see who was able to dress the warmest!

The band traditionally ended their successful season with a "Gourmet Dinner" of pizza and soda at Mr. D's house.

Look! Even the instruments get into the spirit of Pep-Band. This time the theme was "Hat and Shades."

Juniors Mike Jensen and Charlie Hudson discuss what song they can play as a duet to entertain the spectators during a time-out.

Senior Karen Domencetti, known for playing strange solos at basketball games, takes a moment to think through a popular melody before putting it through her instrument.

If the game is going slow, the Pep-Band will entertain themselves as well as the audience as Dawn Grat-tan is doing with someone's flute.

1984-85 Pep-Band captains Julie Howell and Hillary Fink kept up a good group this year.

STUDENTS HELP TEACHERS

The Harborfields Helping Teacher Program began last year, giving students an opportunity to legally leave school grounds and walk across the street to TJL during their lunch and/or free period to assist one of the teachers in his or her classroom.

The program was started for three reasons. One reason is that, within the next few years, there is expected to be a great demand for teachers; and Mr. Ryan, the coordinator, and Mr. Garvey want students to get experience in teaching and to acquire an interest in teaching as a career. The second reason is to give teachers at TJL assistance in the classrooms. The third reason is to give students an opportunity to give service to the community.

While at TJL, students have the opportunities to both get to know a teacher better and to work with children. Sometimes, the student-teachers help the children with homework while, at other times, they either help the children with an art project or read them a story.

Working at TJL is a very enjoyable and rewarding experience for the both the "Helping Teachers" and the teachers at TJL.

FROM VIDEOTAPES TO SANTA
IT'S ALL A PART OF . . .

THE HISTORY CLUB

The History Club is an organization that performs activities which sometimes relate to history and sometimes don't. The club does both fun things and service projects.

The club has an annual journal entitled the Historical Review, which is composed of articles pertaining to history itself, social studies, electives, viewpoints on issues, etc., all written by members of the club.

The club participated in Newsday's "Adopt a Family" program. In order to fund the project, they set up a booth in the cafeteria for people to have their picture taken with "Santa." "As citizens, we all have a responsibility to help each other," said advisor, Mr. Klein. "This is our way of making a start."

As in the past, the club also participated in National History Day at Nassau Coliseum. Students from Harborfields compete with students from other schools with historical projects ranging from written essays to 3D projects to videotapes.

The club also took their annual field trip in the spring, and had a great time, as usual.

The HARBINGER, the Harborfields' HS newspaper, has been making slow progress from the two issues published last year to the once-a-month publications that are hoped for in the near future.

Steps have been taken by the staff of the Harbinger to insure that this will happen. For example, in June of last year, two Harborfields students attended a conference held at C.W. Post College designed specifically to give suggestions as to how to lay out, set up, and run a newspaper.

Hillary Fink and Alan Williams, the two students who attended this conference, were also given the unique opportunity to write for Newsday. In a September issue, an article titled "Do You Have A Pass?" appeared with Hillary as the author, and another entitled "Cliques Don't Click" appeared as written by Alan.

Despite the common problem of a very small staff, the Harbinger had a very successful year, starting all the way back in September with an issue within the first several weeks of school. Their work continued throughout the year, and will conclude with the Senior edition, which will be distributed at the graduation ceremonies.

Co-Editor-in-Chief Alan Williams looks through a book of Feature ideas for the next issue of the Harbinger.

Alan Williams and Feature Editor Hillary Fink try to figure out the best way to do the layout for the March issue.

THEATRE COMPANY

The Harborfields Theater company is an organization for students not only interested in acting, but other areas such as music, lighting, carpentry and painting, to name but a few.

The Theater Company puts on three plays per year — two dramas and one musical. The musical takes much more work and preparation than a drama does, not that a drama isn't a lot of work to put on. The actors are not the only people who prepare for a show.

When putting on any production, there are many hours of long, behind-the-scenes preliminary work involved. The stage crew is responsible for constructing and painting sets, and making sure that everything is in the correct place, scene-by-scene. The technical crew designs lighting and records sound effects and is in charge of making sure that this type of work goes smoothly during performances. The publicity crew makes sure a poster is done and is responsible for making as many people as possible aware that there is going to be a show. The playbill committee makes sure that a playbill is printed that includes anyone's and everyone's name who was involved with the show in any way. The props crew arranges the props on the props tables in the order that they will be needed in the performance. The make up crew makes sure the actors have enough makeup on so that they won't look pale under the bright stage lights. The producer is in charge of keeping all of these committees under control.

Eligibility for membership in the International Thespian Society is determined by both the quality and the quantity of one's work in at least two aspects of the theater. At the end of each production, people are awarded points for their involvement and once they have a certain number accumulated, they can become members of the Society.

Practicing for the orchestra pit for "Oklahoma."

There are so many different things to do in theater, it's sometimes difficult to decide what to work on for a production.

TAKE ALBANY BY STORM

This year's Youth and Government officers:

President — Kei Sochi
Vice-President — Alan Williams
Secretary — Naomi Neville
Treasurer — Kenny Schindler
Public Relations — Jennifer Fink

Mr. O'Connor discusses a fine point of the law . . .

Youth and Government is a school club designed to let members get an idea of our government's procedures and a possible career in the area of government.

Early in the school year, each member decides on the branch of the club he or she will enter, and the careful, serious work begins. The branches are Judicial, Executive, and Legislative. Those who choose the Judicial Branch act as lawyers in an appeals court where they appeal real cases. Seven justices and one chief judge are higher positions a person can hold. This branch is informative and inspires many to look into the field of justice in the future. The Executive Branch is made of individual departments which justify bills being presented in the Legislative Branch. A Legislative Branch member writes a bill which is ranked and debated by other bill-writers.

All dedicated members travel to Albany in the spring to present their work to other students who belong to the program from all over New York State. Besides the three branches of government, other activities in Albany include Press Corps, which writes a newspaper distributed at the end of the Albany Conference, to all program members. There are also Lobbyist and Page positions held. The state conference in Albany is a rewarding and fun experience for all.

The Youth and Government program is very successful in our school, thanks to the Advisor Mr. Tom O'Connor and the students who have devoted so much time. This year, many persons from our school have received honorable positions in Albany, including Kei Sochi (the president) who has position of Attorney General. Others are:

Laura Carillo — Committee Chairperson
Tricia Endres — Deputy Attorney General
Liz O'Driscoll — Assistant Attorney General
Luke Shaedle — Sargeant at Arms
Rachel Wifall — Board of Regents

CLASS OFFICERS, EXECUTIVE BOARD,
PRINCIPAL'S ADVISORY COUNCIL
ALL COME UNDER THE UMBRELLA OF STUDENT COUNCIL IN DEFINING THE

Policy Line

Gather together a group of enthusiastic students on a monthly basis and terrific things can happen. This year's Student Council really towed the line and in the process not only provided the student body with some memorable events but also made some major and lasting improvements in the Council itself.

Highlights of this year's activities include the most successful Homecoming in years, the establishment of a new high school tradition — Senior Slave Day, and a twelve hour Superdance to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

The Council members became more responsive to the needs of the groups they represent with the institution of regular reports on Council activities. Business at Council meeting ran more smoothly because of increased attention to parliamentary procedure and improvements in the Council's organization.

The Student Council is already looking down the line toward next year.

A study in contrasts is the most appropriate one-liner for our district. From the hilly seashore community of Centerport to the once-farmed developments and quaintness of Greenlawn, we contain a bit of many worlds. While primarily a commuter's suburb of New York City, there is a wide range of businesses from Washington Drive and 25A to Broadway and Pulaski Rd. From wealthy to poor two old established communities have absorbed suburbia and produced a 1200 student high school in a district considered one of the best on L.I.

Broadway Greenlawn is one of the most traveled streets in our community.

In the more scenic part of the Centerport Greenlawn area we see one of the less traveled area of Forest Drive.

The Centerport stores, a small village with all the necessities.

The Hart Bus is a very effective way to travel everyday to the mall, work etc.

"AS SOON AS WE DRIVE, WE WORK"

And Sometimes Before . . .

"What do you mean I have to work my senior year if I want to go to college . . ." This might sound familiar to most seniors at Harborfields. "Once you drive, you really need a job to support it," adds senior, Kim Smith. "Without a car, it's really hard to get to work every day," comments Margo Conklin. These are a few of the problems that seniors go through with working and school. But all ends well as the seniors joyfully work through the last year of high school.

Margo Conklin, a cashier at Waldbaums, grins at the passing customers.

Mary Beth Skalacki cheerfully helps customers through check out.

"What kind of cookies do you want?" asks Kim Smith, a worker at the Well Bred Loaf.

The crossroads of Washington Drive and Lone Oak sits Centerport Hardware where Carl Curcio and Jim Devaney work.

Mrs. Ronco

THE EXCITEMENT OF CREATING THIS BOOK HAS BEEN WITH US FROM THE BEGINNING AND

all along the line

It all began last Spring at Columbia University in March, and solidified at Amherst college in July. Four staffers and Advisor Ronco received intensive training on the how-to of yearbooking. Thanks mainly to "Doc" Savedge and the U. of Ohio's yearbook workshop at Amherst, Mass., you may notice a few major changes in the 84-85 Harborlight. Despite 2:30 AM fire alarms, "Tony Noosebacher hos a aih-conditionah" hilariously shouted through the hallowed halls and wild Thyra — "it's 'wicked' late," the four days were an invaluable learning experience.

So here we are, at the end of a book put together primarily by five of us, with a fluctuating staff of 20 or more, to type, write articles and take photos. Part of this new Harborlight is the colophon above, which defines all the specifications of our book. In this article, we all congratulate one another publicly

From Mrs. Ronco: Well, kids, we knew it would be hard to aspire to the standards of "Doc" Savedge without a class. Maybe only I knew how much harder as the year progressed. Remember when we decided we'd do it right for as long as we could, then "wipe out" when it became impossible? Well, it did, and we didn't! I'm so very proud of all of you (even if you did drive me crazy). Sam — for those flashes of brilliance and all the angled spreads. "Don't worry, Ronco." And Debbie, for your solid Ohio knowhow. "Yeah, uhuh, okay, I'll do it tonight." Karen, God bless those dog-eared scraps of paper with writing all over them that somehow turned into copy! And of course, for standing on the table. Hillary, you are a marvel! Calm and steady, smiling and always there, in crises and otherwise. (And thank you, Mrs. Fink, for typing all that copy.) Doug, it took great courage to work with so many demanding females who depended on you doing your job before theirs could be completed! "You did good, kid," but is that knife really necessary?

To the student body and staff, we present "Headlines" the 1985 Harborlight. We hope you find the whole to be greater than the sum of its parts, and enjoy it.

Respectfully submitted by The 1985 Harborlight Staff

CO-EDITORS-IN-CHIEF

for a job well done — (where "done" is the operative word!).

From Sam: Through all the last-minute changes and hassles, I'm glad we've had those great times together (green hair, smoke alarms and beach meetings!) Karen, "Don't be a bathroom tile!" It's been a pleasure working with all of you.

From Debbie: Though sometimes I was ready to drop everything and run, in retrospect it is more than well worth it. Sam, I owe you one for all the times you've been there for me. "What is going on?" We know what we're doing, at least half of the time... Thank you Mr. Ronco, Paul and Charlie for tolerating those marathon work sessions at your house.

From Karen: Didn't think we'd get this far did we? Thank you all who've helped make this yearbook such a success. Thanks, Debbie for showing me the ropes of copywriting. Thanks Mrs. Ronco for pulling on our reins when we needed it, and for keeping us going. Thanks Samantha for your house and for being there when I needed someone to joke with so we wouldn't go crazy. And thank you very much Hillary for always having spirit and a "gung-ho" attitude towards yearbook. By the way, Sam — "Go water your turkey, you mega floor tile." "20% picas, two black wide!"

From Hillary: Thank you Karen, for keeping your sense of humor, especially on those days when we worked all of those hours and hours and hours... And don't forget "Don't worry about it!" Thanks Samantha for all that driving — especially over vacation when we left the junior portraits in the yearbook office! Thanks, Debbie, for showing me how to do layouts. And Doug, for taking and printing all of those pictures last minute. What would we have done without all of your quick, hard work? And finally, thank you Mrs. Ronco for keeping us all together and organized. If you weren't here, what would we have done?

From Doug: As we end this year with a sigh, it's nice to look back and say it was great. We had our ups (sample book) and downs (late deadlines) but all in all, it's been fun. Sam, where's that list of deadlines? Debbie, it's been a blast ever since I chased your makeup case at the terminal! Karen, it was strange and interesting working with you... and yes, Hillary, there is film in the autofocus! Finally, to Mrs. Ronco and the rest of you: Thanks for putting up with my idiosyncrasies (forgotten film and last-minute assignments.)

Senior Kim Smith thinks about the end of the year.

The end of a winning streak as the senior class leaves Harborfields.

The end of the Buses leaves the school at the end of the day.

The end of the snow storm brings joy to the kids at HF.

just a few Closing Lines

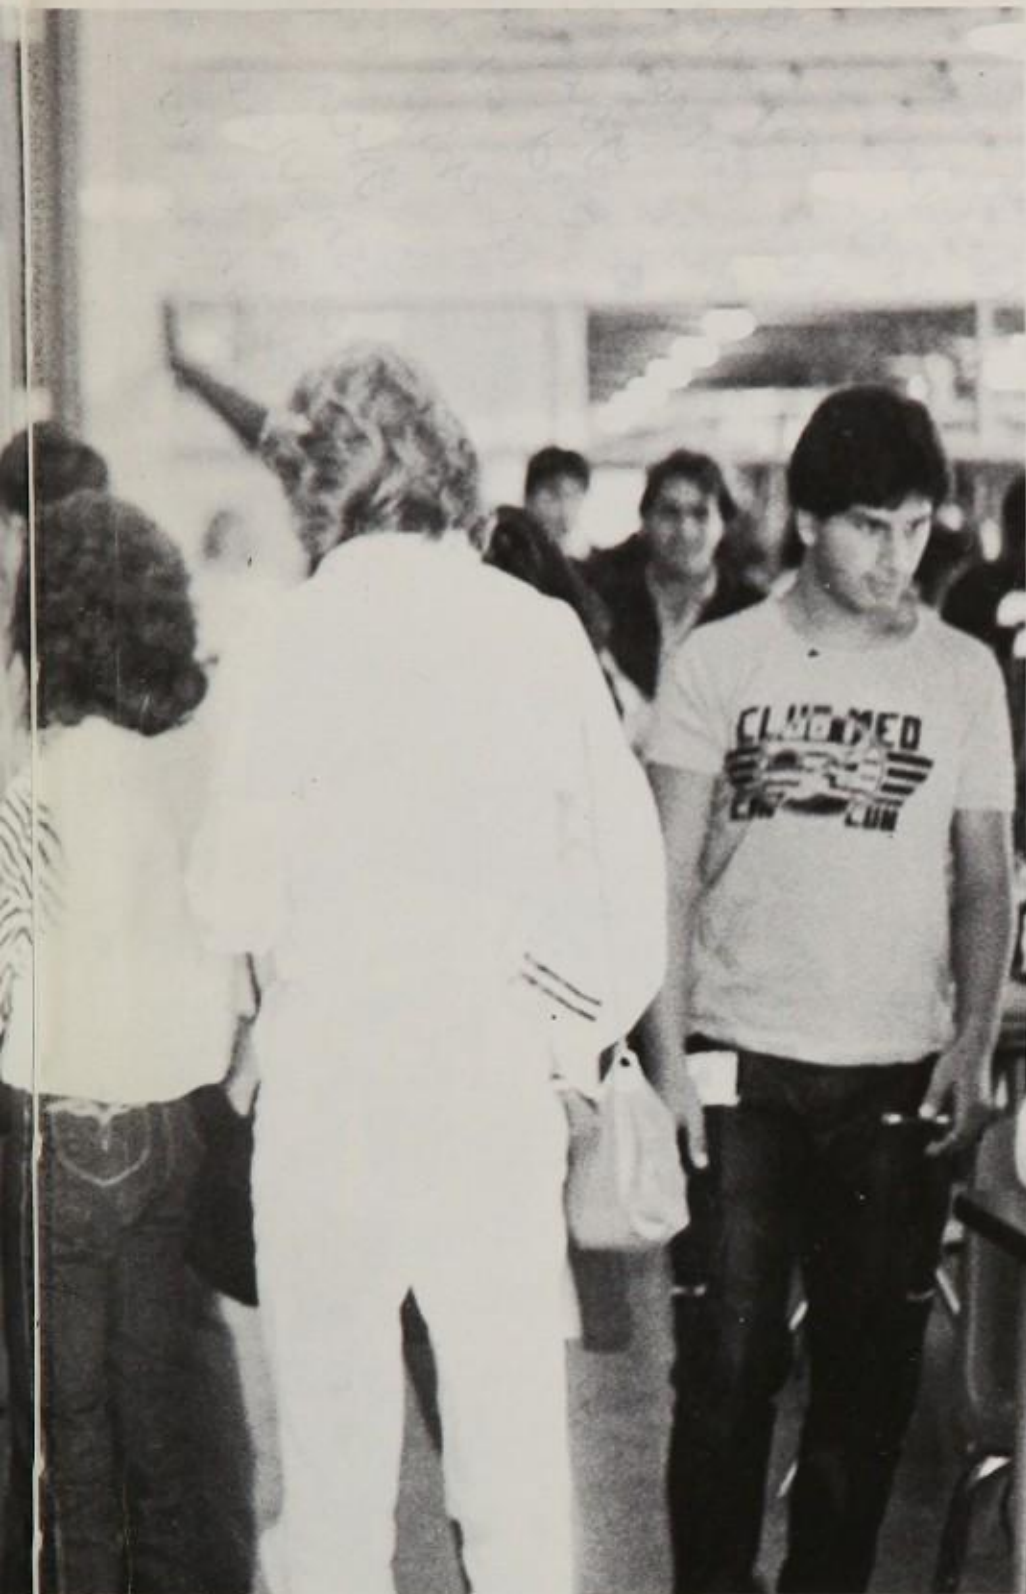

Well it's that time again. Although some thought spring would never arrive — the year finally ended. Over 300 Seniors graduated to make room for the 1989 freshman class.

From the starting line-up on the football team to the straight lines of the Marching Band and Drill Team at Hofstra, Harborfields made Headlines.

For most, this is a time of joy. But for others, it's just the beginning. And for those who are Seniors, the beginning of an entire new world. So many things have happened this past year, and so fast too that you probably didn't even notice them. This was the year that the school was painted that awful brown, and then changed to green and gold. This year we beat John Glenn! 7-6! And this year the roof was "fixed." What a fun year! Just think of all the friends each of us has made this year and all the good times we've all had together, in and out of school. Remember that Bleacher Bunch at all of the Home Basketball games? Remember the crazy Varsity Soccer team and their first appearance at the pep-rally dressed in shorts and Hawaiian shirts? There's been so many good times this year and there will be many more before this school year is out. Thank you people of Harborfields for making 1984-85 a year that will stay fond in everyone's memory forever.

The end of the Lunch line. Not a fun place to be as you can see.

The sun sets over Harborfields, a gorgeous sight to those who stay after for activities.
